Gorge

B.C., Saanich Seek
New Disposal Method

POLLUTION FOES

SCENT VICTORY

Chant

By IAN SMITH

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant expects to find a solution to the ticklish Gorge sewage question "within two or three weeks."

Members of the Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterways Association immediately hailed the news as a major victory.

Mr. Chant confirmed Thursday that Saanich municipality and the public works department of the provincial government are working together to find an economic disposal method that will not involve fouling the waters of the Gorge.

He also implied that the solution would not involve changing the site of the proposed Wilkinson Road retarded children's hospital.

"I think we have an answer to the problem," said Mr. Chant, "but we can't disclose it until it has been checked out thoroughly by engineers."

"I THINK IT WILL WORK"

"The engineers may find some flaws that will necessitate our abandoning the idea," he said, "but I think it will work out all right."

Saanich and the provincial public works department both applied to dump treated effluent into Colquitz Creek, and the Pollution Control Board approved the Saanich application before residents set up a howl of protest.

1,000 SIGNATURES

The waterways association was formed as an answer to the two applications, and members collected more than 7,000 signatures in an effort to halt the schemes.

"Maybe we succeeded," said Richard Faulls, president of the association. "If it's true, I'm jubilant."

"But we'll stay on guard until we see this thing through," he promised. "It certainly sounds hopeful."

LONG HARD PULL'

Saanich MLA John Tisdale was "very happy" about the latest development, especially the likelihood that the children's hospital would not be moved.

"It's been a long, hard pull to get one on the Island," he said.

Mr. Chant, while refusing to disclose the nature of the proposed solution, did say that "what we want is a permanent sever connection."

HINTS BOOKUP

"In the end, it may actually be more economic to hook up to proper facilities rather than put in a treatment plant."

"These plants are not cheap, you know. The kind we planned could easily have cost $150,000, and then it would have been only a temporary solution."

WOULD COST ANYWAY'

"We would eventually have had to pay the cost of installing sewers, anyway."

He implied that both Saanich and the provincial government had dispensed with the idea of dumping effluent into Colquitz Creek.

"It would only add to the algae problem that already exists," he admitted. "Actually, the amount of algae attributable to our plant would be negligible, when compared with that produced by other causes, but some would undoubtedly be produced nevertheless."

BERLIN — A brief Soviet occupation of the vital bridge across the Elbe River on the Berlin autobahn caused a flurry of excitement Thursday among crisis-conscious West Germans.

Anemone Hungry Enemy

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A sea anemone, a plant-like sea animal, devoured a young leopard shark Thursday in the aquarium tank they shared.

The rare encounter was witnessed by photographers and staff members of the Aquarium of Niagara Falls.

The sea anemone has flowing tentacles with poison tips it uses to sting its victims, normally small sea animals, before eating them.

The young shark and the sea anemone, from the Pacific Ocean, had been in the same tank about three weeks. Winfield Brady, aquarium director, said the shark was about a year old, 30 inches long and weighed about 1½ pounds. The anemone, which is about eight to 12 inches wide, surrounds its food by distending itself. The food is then digested by gastric juices.

Dramatic New Move

Mission Will Talk With Viet Rebels

LONDON (CP) — The British Commonwealth's four-power peace mission made clear Thursday night it is ready to meet leaders of the Communist Viet Cong in its quest for peace in Viet Nam.

And British authorities said they had new word from Moscow indicating the Soviets may yet receive the mission — if Communist North Viet Nam agrees to do so.

MISSION IMPARTIAL.

The mission, in a series of messages to both East and West, told all parties in the crisis its approach to peace-making is impartial.

A statement in the names of four government leaders who made three main points:

• They want "direct contact with all the Vietnamese parties" to the war. This means they want to meet Viet Cong leaders either inside or outside South Viet Nam next month.

• They insist "positive steps must be taken by all outside parties" to restrain their military operations while the mission is at work. This is intended to achieve, in particular, a halt in American bombing attacks on North Viet Nam.

Kootenays Alderman Crash Victim

TRAIL (CP) — A 46-year-old Nelson alderman died Thursday, a few hours after being found in the wreckage of a light plane beside the corpse of its pilot.

F. A. Beresford died in Kootenay Lake General Hospital, where he had undergone surgery for multiple injuries.

Police identified the pilot as Alec Maclean, 46, of Nelson.

A group of loggers found the wreckage in Lemon Creek. The plane is believed to have crashed about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday while returning to Nelson from Vernon after trying unsuccessfully to land at Kamloops.

Corruption, Cong Targets of War

SAIGON (AP) — Brig.-Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky's new South Viet Nam government proclaimed a state of war Thursday that stiffened the existing state of martial law. It also broke diplomatic relations with Paris, charging France is aiding South Viet Nam's enemies.

Decree to tighten the home front effort came out at a hasty press conference while troops and airmen pressed the campaign against the Viet Cong and their North Vietnamese backers.

A battalion of 800 U.S. paratroopers fought guerrillas in the bomb-damaged D-3000 jungle 25 miles north of Saigon, the target of the war's first strike by B-57 jets of the Strategic Air Command. The Americans drew only some sniper fire.

AERIAL STRIKES

More than 120 U.S. planes carried out aerial strikes against North Viet Nam. A spokesman said a 46-plane force staged the fourth raid in a week on the Son La army barracks, 110 miles west northwest of Hanoi, sighted two MIG-17s, but the Communist jets passed away.

The break with France, which advocates neutralization of Viet Nam, and the domestic crackdowns were announced by Ky and his ministers.

respondent in his cross-complaint.

If the court doesn't act, Mrs. Taormina "fears improper advances will be made again which she may be unable to resist."

Edwards denied all allegations contained in both the actions brought by the Taorminas.

But Superior Judge Roger Alton Pfeiff, after hearing the complaint, ordered Edwards to appear July 8 to show cause why he should not be restrained from making romantic overtures.

Mrs. Taormina originally filed for divorce in December, and her husband filed a cross-complaint in January seeking an annulment. He contended she was married to another man at the time of their Las Vegas wedding, and also accused her of adultery with Edwards.

Mrs. Taormina's complaint named Edwards as well as her husband as defendants.

Charlie Chasing 'Killers' with Cheque Book

Line Baited for Whale-Catcher

By GARY OAKES

cheque book in hand, Charlie White of the Underset Gardens is flying today to Namu, a cannery village south of Ocean Falls, in hopes of buying at least one of two killer whales.

But he may be in for some tough bidding as MarineLand of the Pacific, near Los Angeles, is particularly interested in the two whales caught by accident by a commercial fisherman Wednesday.

MarineLand offered $20,000 last year for Moby Doll, the killer whale captured by Dr. Murray Newman, Vancouver Public Aquarium curator.

Mr. White has been told Dr. Newman offered $2,000 for the whales but was turned down by fisherman William Lechobit.

Mr. White said Thursday he isn't sure whether he wants both whales but is prepared to offer more than $2,000.

One of the whales is 20 feet long and the other 10 feet long but no one is sure of the sex of either.

They swam into Mr. Lechobit's net when it snagged on a rock and the fisherman pulled the free end of the net around and trapped them against the rock.

Now he's waiting for offers.

If Mr. White is able to purchase either or both whales he can offer more natural facilities than the Vancouver aquarium or MarineLand.

A pen 60 feet by 100 feet has already been designed complete with a special viewing chamber which would enable visitors to see the whales from above and below the surface.

If the project is approved by the various authorities, it would be set up in a matter of weeks behind the existing Underset Gardens.

White

Mr. White estimates the pen would cost $10,000 to $15,000. Donald Wilkie, a special consultant from Scripps Institute of Oceanography near San Diego and former assistant curator of the Vancouver aquarium, would fly up to handle the massive moving job if Mr. White's bid is accepted.

U.S. Soldier Executed

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam said today a captured U.S. Army Sgt. Harold George Bennett has been executed in reprisal for "numerous bloody crimes against the South Vietnamese people."

About 30 more countries also were scheduled to send delegates to the Afro-Asian summit meeting. Most of the delegations were to be headed by prime ministers, presidents and kings.

DELEGATES CONCERNED

The foreign ministers originally were scheduled to meet Thursday. A 24-hour delay was announced Wednesday night, to allow time for additional delegations to arrive. A second delay, to noon Saturday, was announced for the same reason Thursday afternoon by the 25-nation committee preparing for the foreign ministers' meeting.

Committee delegates were concerned by the failure of the revolutionary council, which ousted Ben Bella and seized power Saturday, to give convincing proof of stability based on popular support.

STUDENTS DEMONSTRATE

Thousands of students demonstrated every night this week, demanding Ben Bella be freed and calling defence minister Col. Houari Boumedienne, who led the coup, an assassin.

Cabinet ministers and officials of more than 30 countries who have already arrived face the difficult decision whether it is safe for their leaders to come to the conference in view of the protest demonstrations.

Gorge: Second Look

"We think we may be able to get around that problem entirely."

He also emphasized that even under the original plan, objections had not been based on bacterial pollution. "The effluent from a treatment plant is acceptable from a health standpoint," he said. "It's just the only work in dry weather."

Saigon: It's War

varied interests and political no opposition to any of the new decrees, adding: "We are ready to sacrifice 10,000 traitors to save 14,000,000 free Vietnamese."

THREATENS TO SHOOT

"I will shoot all corrupt officials, cowardly soldiers and speculators," Ky said. "My government and I have accepted responsibility before history. Opposition means nothing to us. Our only object is to restore peace and return prosperity to the country after defeating the Communists."

In announcing the break with France, which once ruled Viet Nam as a part of Indochina, Foreign Minister Tran Van Do said President De Gaulle's government "pretends to be a friend, but isn't."

Ky declared he would break

"What we want is a practical, economical solution that will enable the hospital to stay in the Colquitz location. I think that with the help of Samich council, we will achieve that solution."

Mrs. Dennis Henrickson, secretary of the waterways association, called it "wonderful news. If Mr. Chant can find a solution that doesn't involve putting the sewage into the Gorge, more power to him."

"We'll certainly be looking forward to any announcement that they might make."

She warned, however, that the association would not stop fighting after this one battle in over.

CLEAN UP GORGE

"We want to clean up the Gorge completely," she said. "And I think we'll go after anybody who's polluting it."

"We were formed with one project in mind—to stop pollution of the Gorge and Portage Inlet. We look forward to seeing any faulty septic tanks around the Gorge put into proper operation, and proper sewage facilities installed throughout the whole area."

Howard Roberts, also on the executive of the association, backed her up. "This can be a fine recreation area," he said. "Let's all work to make it that way."

They reaffirm that "the Commonwealth as such is in no way committed to either side of the conflict in Viet Nam." And they promised that "in the discharge of the task entrusted to it the mission will be guided by the views of the Commonwealth as a whole and not by the views of an individual member."

ATTITUDE HOPEFUL

As the statement was issued, British authorities said they have had word from Moscow indicating the Soviets may receive the mission if North Viet Nam also does so. Britain's envoy in Hanoi already has reported on the attitude of private talks that the attitude of the North Vietnamese is less negative than that of China.

All these developments together led the group as a whole to launch a big new effort both publicly and behind the diplomatic scenes to win an invitation to Hanoi.

NEW METHOD

The decision to seek contact with the Viet Cong marks a considerable change from the position of the U.S. It so far has been ready to meet Viet Cong leaders only as part of a Vietnamese peace team.

The messages went out to Moscow, Hanoi, Peking, Saigon and Washington after President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana—a mission member—said in a statement the membership had been misrepresented abroad.

NKRUMAH CLARIFIES

Previous Commonwealth conference statements indicated the mission would confer with the Viet Cong only in terms of association with an established government such as the North Vietnamese administration.

"If we were to receive the representatives of the National Liberation Front (The Viet Cong) as part of a North Viet Nam peace mission," Nkrumah said, "we should also have to refuse to receive the Saigon authorities except as part of the United States delegation."

FALSE STATEMENTS

He argued previous statements published and broadcast in Britain and abroad saying the mission will confer with the Viet Cong only as part of the Hanoi regime were "entirely unauthorized."

"Such a suggestion misrepresents the situation in South Viet Nam and the purpose of our mission."

CHINESE CONTACTED

Nkrumah, who has been in touch with Chinese representatives, said one of the most important tasks the mission must undertake is to try to bring the National Liberation Front and the Saigon government into some form of agreement.

The New Statesman said Wilson, who initiated the mission plan, had failed to understand most Commonwealth members are uncommitted to the Western Alliance. By lining up with Prime Minister Robert Menzies of Australia at the outset, he had given the appearance the whites were attempting to use the Commonwealth as a vehicle to promote Western positions.

GROUP REBUTTED

The peace mission, which consists of the leaders of Britain, Ghana, Nigeria and Trinidad-Tobago, had been rebuffed in its appeals to Moscow, Hanoi and Peking for permission to visit these capitals as part of their peace pilgrimage. British

Peace Mission

But Wilson told the Commons Thursday, before the latest messages were issued, the pilgrimage will begin when "conditions are appropriate for mediatory activities which the whole Commonwealth wants."

NOT CRACK CURTAIN

That seemed to suggest, as Prime Minister Pearson earlier had maintained, it will be used for the mission to travel if it cannot get into the Communist capitals.

The mission's new statement said within the Commonwealth there is a diversity of opinion, but the mission will be guided "by the views of the Commonwealth as a whole and not by the view of any individual member."

SPREAD TO ALL

The Commonwealth as a whole was not taking sides in the Vietnamese war and the Commonwealth was satisfied in this context that the mission "must make direct contact with all the Vietnamese parties to the dispute."

The mission members asked again that all "outside parties" exercise military restraint in Viet Nam while the mission is carrying out its task.

U.S. CRITICIZED

Nkrumah in his earlier statement said he supported Wilson as mission chairman but criticized the U.S. for failing to halt its aerial strikes in North Viet Nam after welcoming the Commonwealth's peace initiative.

"The continuance of such raids at a time when the U.S. publicly welcomes our mission makes our task most difficult," Nkrumah said.

Your Good Health

You Can't Guzzle Alcohol If You Want to Lose Weight

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband and I disagree over the calories in liquor and beer. The doctor put him on a reducing diet but didn't mention alcohol. My husband thinks I'm just telling him they have so many calories because I don't want him to drink. —MRS. B.

Many fat people have this misconception about alcohol. The fact is that alcohol is high in calories. No matter how you slice it, fat is the result of absorbing more calories than the body uses up.

A bottle of beer runs about 150 calories; a jigger of whisky about 55 calories; cocktails about 185. Highballs made with water or soda will represent only the calories of the liquor in them. If they are made with gin, colas or other sweet mixtures, the calorie value may be twice as much. This depends on whether it's a tall drink.

If your husband figures somewhere around 100 calories per drink, he can do his own arithmetic. If he is on a 1,000-calorie diet, one drink means 10 per cent of his food allowance for the day.

And don't let him be fooled by the so-called drinking man's diet. A calorie is a calorie.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can hemorrhoids that bleed over cause cancer?

They won't cause cancer. However, it is not safe to suppose that because bleeding hemorrhoids are present, that it is impossible for cancer to be present, too. Complete examination is the only way to be sure, and safe.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can plastic surgery correct a congenital deformity such as a cleft lip?

Cleft lip is not as simple as it appears.

Congenital defects (such as cleft lip, receding chin, noses that are too big or too small, ears that stick out, etc.) can be corrected by plastic surgery. Some others can't.

If your interest is in just the one defect, cleft lip (or, more accurately, cleft palate) the answer is yes. It is best to have it repaired in infancy.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a man has an affair only several times could his wife contract a disease from him? I have had a few rashes and sores. They have gone away but then come back, but not as bad. Now my wife is breaking out with these rashes, and she has also complained about vaginal itching. I have heard that there are no visible sores or symptoms for syphilis, and that only a blood test would show the disease. —G.J.T.

You can get syphilis from just one contact with some woman who has the disease. You can then give it to your wife.

From your description, I don't think the signs indicate syphilis.

The original sign is a painless sore, at the point at which the germs enter. If only it were a very painful sore, then we'd control this disease better!

In your case, I suspect that you may have taken home some sort of skin infection, and possibly some form of vaginitis. I suggest that you have a medical examination at once, to be followed by one for your wife.

Ellinwood, Kan. (UPI)—The Arkansas River rolled on Thursday with its mightiest flood in Western Kansas history but lost its second battle in two days to workers determined to protect their towns.

A band of 50 workers fought throughout the night and morning sandbagging weakened dikes against the muddy waters—and their efforts paid off.

Water lapped at the edge of the town of 2,500 but the city itself was dry. "We whipped it," a city hall spokesman said. "We're in good shape today."

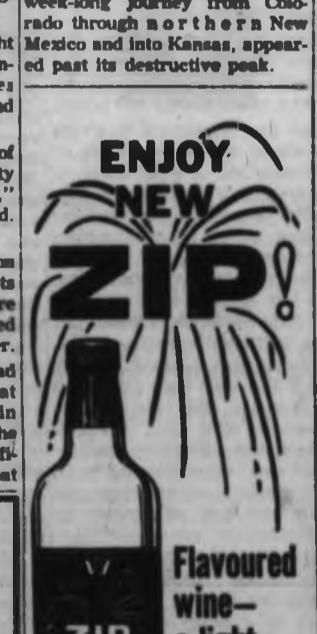

Three days of preparation channeled the river through its banks at Great Bend, where emergency dikes and reinforced levees prevented any spillover.

About 2,000 people, who had evacuated their homes at Great Bend, were asked to remain away until today. Although the river held within its banks, officials wanted to make sure that temporary dikes west of town held against continued pressure of the water.

The river, which chased 20,000 people from their homes in its week-long journey from Colorado through northern New Mexico and into Kansas, appeared past its destructive peak.

Court's Pace Changes

VANCOUVER (CP)—The august judges of the B.C. Court of Appeal, who usually deal in murder appeals and million-dollar suits, wrestled legally for an hour Thursday with the case of the little white rabbit.

The legal question put in an appeal before Chief Justice H. L. Bird, Mr. Justice H. J. Sullivan and Mr. Justice H. A. MacLean, was whether Leonard Filipchuk, of interior Chase, B.C., was in fact guilty of stealing one small white rabbit.

The legal question put in an appeal before Chief Justice H. L. Bird, Mr. Justice H. J. Sullivan and Mr. Justice H. A. MacLean, was whether Leonard Filipchuk, of interior Chase, B.C., was in fact guilty of stealing one small white rabbit.

They heard appeal evidence that the rabbit had been given to Mrs. Marie Hudson of Chase by Filipchuk's mother. Later the accused had asked for its return, been refused, and took it away.

RCMP were called and Filipchuk was charged with theft and convicted.

The judges on the evidence, quashed the conviction and six-month suspended sentence which had been imposed on Filipchuk by a magistrate.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian publishers should leave Communist China alone to settle her own problems, a former part-time lecturer at the University of B.C. said Thursday.

Prof. Paul Lin, who worked in the Communist nation for 15 years prior to returning to his native Vancouver last year, told the Vancouver Kiwanis Club that no power on earth can succeed in its policy towards China until it reconciles itself to "the interests and aspirations of the Chinese people."

The lecturer claimed the "vast majority of the Chinese people" have accepted communism as "the only way out for the nation, other alternatives having been tried and found lacking."

Hope Remains

THERE IS STILL hope that the Commonwealth peace mission will be able to reach the ear of the Communist allies in the Viet Nam war. If they do it will be through the good offices of Moscow, it seems, as much as by their own praiseworthy endeavors.

It matters not a whit whether the mission is headed by Prime Minister Wilson or Prime Minister Pearson, as far as the Commonwealth nations are concerned.

To the Communists, of course, Mr. Wilson is less acceptable, first, because he has approved the American policy in Viet Nam and, second, because of Britain's close support of Malaysia against the continued belligerence of Peking-backed Indonesia.

However, both prime ministers represent nations which have maintained a studiously neutral policy as far as participation is concerned.

Neither the Russians nor the Chinese want to offend the Afro-Asian element of the Commonwealth, comprising no fewer than 13 nations. And three of these nations—Ghana, Nigeria, and Trinidad-Tobago—are members of the selected peace force of four nations which proposes to visit Washington, Moscow, Peking, Hanoi and Saigon.

Here, then, is another reason to hope that the Commonwealth effort may not go entirely unrewarded.

Whatever the outcome, the Commonwealth has once again demonstrated the power for good inherent in its association.

Even the small success so far attained—the apparent willingness of Russia to keep open the door to negotiation—is an indication of the power and influence that Commonwealth solidarity possesses. In this instance it has shown itself more effectual than the United Nations, and its members should feel gratified.

As long as the Commonwealth speaks with one voice it will be heard around the world.

Champion's Gesture

OLDER AMERICAN golfing stars who have known the adulation of foreign spectators must have been distressed last week by the carping criticism of U.S. commentators about Commonwealth golfers playing in the U.S. Open Championship.

Gary Player of South Africa, who won after a playoff with Kel Nagle of Australia, offended the critics on various counts, including an allegation he was playing too slowly.

The fact that the young South African took the top U.S. golfing title out of the country for the first time since Ted Ray of England won it in 1920, and that both winner and runner-up for the first time on record were from outside the U.S., may have been irking to those who for years have taken it for granted that home golfers would fill the top places.

However, it was unfortunate for Player, and for all other foreign competitors in the major U.S. event, that such an atmosphere should have been created. It left the impression that the United States is not a good loser, and so far as the leading U.S. golfers taking part in the competition itself this is probably grossly untrue.

The final blow to U.S. pride came at the prize-giving when Player handed back his winning cheque for $25,000, and asked the U.S. Golf Association to use it for charitable and junior golf development purposes.

Saying that the honor and not the money was sufficient, the young South African very aptly answered those who claimed that the Commonwealth golfers—including a talented four-man team from Australia—were taking too much U.S. money out of the country by their Gold Trail success.

When one considers the treatment accorded to such famous U.S. golfers as Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, and more latterly Ben Hogan and Arnold Palmer in other countries, particularly Britain and Canada, when they were swooping every honor from the home players, the U.S. attitude towards its present champion is hard to understand.

The U.S. should remember that in the last 51 years only one Canadian—Pat Fletcher, formerly of Victoria—has won the Canadian Open, and the British themselves have had only a handful of winners of their own Open since the First World War. Yet in neither of these countries has there ever been any suggestion that the all-conquering Americans should be banned. Indeed the reverse. They have been accorded the heartiest of welcomes, and genuine good wishes have gone with them in their triumphs.

Beyond the President

THE PRESIDENT of the United States in the off minutes from his international worries has been attempting to stop the decline in New York stock prices.

He has called conferences to insist that the U.S. economy is as buoyant as ever and that there is no recession in sight; he has made it clear that he does not agree with the gloomy views of U.S. No. 1 financial expert William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Even so the Wall Street traders and investors have chosen to deal with the present situation in their own way.

They have suddenly realized that the boom years have more than doubled the value of the average stock—and that includes the blue chips—and they know that this "always on the up and up" cannot continue indefinitely.

The result is that Wall Street is now going through a quite severe technical correction, whether Mr. Johnson likes it or not. The Wall Street bulls and bears have their own way of treating the nation's top man, no matter who he is.

Summer Symptoms

OH, THE BALMY days of summer! Sure enough, to start the hot-air season, a new monster was sighted: a two- or three-humped thing surging along at a splendid speed in Shuswap Lake. Then there was that outstanding British Columbian, Roderick Gagliardi, spouting out that he hates practically everything the province stands for today.

And now Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, sounding like a Saksarino of the North Pacific, thumping home the nonsense that British Columbia owns everything off its coast, no matter how far out; that with the question of offshore rights going before the Supreme Court of Canada, "We don't care about precedents." We'll set the precedents."

The little men from Mars aren't quite as dependable as Flying Phil.

But it's that time of year. They are almost certain to be along one day soon.

We just hope that the rest of the country takes them, the Shuswapaurus, and Mr. Gagliardi equally seriously.

TWO young university students, I note from the sports pages, have left Vancouver en route for Henley-on-Thames, where they hope to put Canada on the rowing record in the double sculls.

I wish them well, more so than, apparently, does the National Fitness Council, which according to the news item in question has reneged on its promise of financial support to the extent of cutting its contribution in half.

Yet one supposes that the same council will applaud heartily if the rowers duplicate the success that came to them in Tokyo last year.

By its name this council could be judged as primarily concerned with the fitness of the nation, rather than with sports per se—although those can scarcely be separated. And general fitness cannot come about, physically that is, without sporting endeavor.

True, there have been difficulties. One is over trade with South Africa. These countries believe there should be a worldwide embargo against that country, but Canada does not. We must exert our influence and we must be a world leader in race wars.

Among African Nations

AFRICA continues to be the continent of changes and surprises. No doubt this was to be expected because only three of the 37 nations—South Africa, Ethiopia and Liberia—were in existence as free nations at the end of the Second World War. It will be many years before there is stability.

Among this large group of new nations are nine which now belong to the Commonwealth. As there are only 21 Commonwealth members in all this means that the Africans, if they work together, can have an important voice in any Commonwealth deliberations.

Canada throughout has had very friendly relations with these new countries and I hope that will always be the case. We have a special aid program for them and their young people benefit from the Commonwealth Scholarship plan which was a Canadian initiative. Our stand against South Africa on the question of apartheid drew them to us, so has the fact that Canada herself, like them, was once a colonial power.

Field for Friendly Service

peace-time goods to whomsoever will purchase them.

South Africa itself is a very important factor in the awakening continent. Prosperous, heavily armed and determined to have white supremacy at all costs, the South Africans are destroying the hatred of the new nations which were British colonies. This may be because the former French colonies do not place as high a value on complete independence as the British but in any event their attitude has tended to reduce friction in Africa.

Canada has had friendly relations with these French-speaking countries as well. The former government moved deliberately to strengthen the ties by establishing diplomatic relations with most of these new nations, by a special aid program and by cultivating their friendship at the United Nations.

Some of the African countries have been particularly outstanding for their moderation and clear thinking. For example Nigeria, which has the largest population of any, and Tunisia which is on the Mediterranean. The old countries of Ethiopia and Liberia have also given excellent leadership.

Naturally one would expect Africa to have a great attraction for the Communists but strange to say they seem to have made little headway. The Red Chinese have been more successful than the Russians in establishing contacts.

For some reason or other President Nyerere of Tanzania has welcomed the Chinese with open arms and the Algerians under President Ben Bella did the same. His removal by force may have changed this situation although the uprising there probably stemmed from other policies of his regime.

The representatives of the nations of Asia and Africa are to gather in Algiers on June 29 unless there is postponement. This will give us a clearer picture of the direction in which the Africans are moving although the Asians may dominate the conference. The interests of the two groups are not always identical and it should be remembered that the population of Asia is many times that of Africa.

The Africans have their own continental club known as the Organization for African Unity. In time it may develop an African viewpoint but that day is still far off except on such questions as apartheid in South Africa.

Meanwhile the so-called "dark continent" will change and there will be many surprises. Much help will be needed from the older countries and Canada should do her full share. Our name is particularly good in Africa; we have many friends there and we can make a worthwhile contribution.

This is a field for service in which our nation can be one of the leaders.

People Must Speak

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

THE press conference used to be one of the major instruments of government in the United States.

The sort of things that are said to a hushed and crowded Parliament in Britain are unaccustomed to the free-spirited journalists in Washington.

The press conference has become a sort of unofficial addition to the Constitution. The press represents the people, inquiring, skeptical, suspicious of all power, respecting no office, yet, at bottom, as responsible as any elected chamber. They have come to look upon this power to inquire as a right.

President Roosevelt dominated these conferences sitting down, and mocked them and charmed them and used them like a musical instrument. President Truman stood no nonsense and shot back quick, angry, contemptuous answers and was loved for it.

President Eisenhower tended to get lost in the thicket of his own grammar, yet used them as perhaps the chief weapon in his under-stocked armory of government.

President Kennedy was a little too complicated, and in his efforts to make the press conference an exact instrument, sometimes failed.

President Johnson clearly distrusts the whole business of a formal conference where the reporters come armed and ready.

Not that he objects to giving his views. He speaks often on television and at short notice, to the despatch of the networks. He suffers something like a compulsion to get himself understood and agreed with. He will see a group of magazine editors and talk to them for four hours and miss his lunch in doing it.

He will take reporters caring round his ranch and mix talk about his policies with talk about his cattle with talk about his policies. He sees selected reporters often, but banishes them if they displease him. He telephones reporters and asks them their views on something he has done, and they had better be favorable.

Or he suddenly sends for the little "rump" of reporters who huddle all day in a club-like room in a wing of the White House. With them and his dogs he will go round the White House gardens. The president talks and they trot with notebooks and balloons at the ready. It is not an ideal way of giving or getting information, but this is one of the president's ways of unwinding.

The formal, set-piece press conference he uses less often than his predecessors. When one is given, he likes to give it in the east room of the White House. This is a great, handsome chamber with heavy velvet curtains and pot-bellied chandeliers and huge portraits of Washington and his wife.

Rows and rows of chairs are set out so that some 400 to 500 reporters sit in semi-circles facing a lectern that bears the seal of the President of the United States. Hard, worried-looking men cluster round the

Despite Criticism

Alliance Unshaken

By MAX FREEDMAN from Washington

THE present state of British opinion on Viet Nam can best be measured by studying it in the light cast by recent events. That will help us to understand why the tone of British comment has suddenly begun to critical and also to reassure us that the strength of American association with Britain stands firm and undiminished.

In the last election the issue of British-American relations arose in two ways.

In the first place, there was the issue of nuclear policy. Sir Alex Douglas-Home, still echoing Churchill, said Britain needed its own independent deterrent in order to influence American policy. He never explained why France, which certainly is a nuclear power, has so little influence on American policymakers. Nor did he explain why Germany should be denied its own deterrent if Britain and France needed nuclear power as the attribute and guarantee of national sovereignty.

Speaking for the Labour Party, Harold Wilson insisted that the British deterrent was unnecessary and was too expensive. He intended to work for a new nuclear policy under which British power would be merged with a NATO deterrent. It was in obedience to this pledge that he later as prime minister made the decisive contribution in adjusting the American proposal for a multilateral nuclear force to the needs of the NATO community.

After months of quiet support the criticisms now being made by responsible leaders in Britain naturally have greater resonance and impact than they otherwise would have. They are speaking out as a delayed response to the criticisms being expressed with growing emphasis outside parliamentary circles.

Meanwhile, two basic facts stand out very clearly. Prime Minister Wilson has raised the life of his government by his stalwart support of the United States; and no one regrets more deeply than President Johnson that Britain's diplomacy in Viet Nam has achieved such shabby results. He hopes Britain will persist in her search for an honorable way out of the Viet Nam morass. The criticisms and protests from England he will take with an undimmed heart.

Press and President

A Harassed Man

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

THE press conference used to be one of the major instruments of government in the United States.

The sort of things that are said to a hushed and crowded Parliament in Britain are unaccustomed to the free-spirited journalists in Washington.

The president strides in accompanied by the soft clicking of cameras. He looks bone weary. This is a man who presides over every detail of the war in Viet Nam and the affray in the Dominican Republic. This is the man who demands to be awakened at three in the morning to be told if any of his pilots are missing.

This is the man who suddenly finds himself sending men to death and is helplessly appealed by it; who now spends 80 per cent of his time on foreign affairs, to which he came as a stranger. His eyelids are heavy. His face is cleft with deep lines. His voice is low, not gentle, but soft and insistent and tired. He makes long preliminary announcements and glances from side to side at little glass panels which are transparent to the press, but which cunningly reflect his written notes back to the president. He is unsmiling, there are no jokes. He uses the slow language of politics clearly.

When they are at last permitted, the questioners stand and the president picks them out one by one with a swift finger. The questions tend to run to length and to demand several answers. The president watches warily and gives his answer or dismisses a question with a single word.

He shows no emotion, even at a hostile or impertinent question. There are none of those awful blurs of commander-in-chief anger that turned Eisenhower, from time to time, pink and quivering. He does not either as Truman did or coldly put in place like Kennedy.

It is far less free-ranging than it used to be. The concentration on the places where the U.S. forces are, and over and over again he makes the same points about lives to be saved, Communism to be inhibited, freedom to be preserved and help to be given. There is a little on domestic affairs, but his method here is to prefer the old senatorial approach whereby things are fixed with an arm across a colleague's shoulder and a unnecessary public controversy avoided as wasteful and dangerous.

But on the foreign front he hungers for agreement and approval. This is not electorally engineering. This is a man hurt by criticism, who cannot understand it, who knows he is doing the only right and possible thing. He is also a man for whom power is life and the failing of that power a sort of little death.

It is a strange performance, behind that lectern and under the lights. It compels sympathy. It makes disagreement difficult and unpleasant. But the odd thing about it is that afterwards you can never be certain that anything has been said.

John D Won't Hand Over Reins

By IAN STREET

John Diefenbaker obviously has no intention of resigning the leadership of the Progressive Conservative Party.

The chief made that much quite clear during a visit to Victoria earlier this week.

He told a party rally that some people, presumably within the party, would have him step down so that a younger man could become party leader.

The gain for the Conservatives, some felt, would be an unknown number of votes in the next election.

But he told the Tory faithful here he would have none of that kind of thinking. While there was a job to be done for Canada, he would do it for as long as he was able, and then went on to forcefully warn that the task the party faced was nothing less than the preservation of Canada as a nation within the Commonwealth.

Last Monday night, it must be admitted, he looked and sounded like a man equal to the task he had set for himself.

He looked fitter than he has for some time and despite poor luck on the fishing grounds over the weekend seemed in good spirits.

I talked with the opposition leader briefly in his Empress Hotel suite before the meeting. He wanted to know about economic conditions in Japan and particularly about the prospect of Premier Bennett making treaties with the Japanese.

Told that he hadn't made any stage, Mr. Diefenbaker said nevertheless the premier had made it quite clear on his return that he intended to do so. B.C. has no intention, he said, of letting Quebec's Premier Lougheed out.

This is what's wrong with Canada today, said Mr. Diefenbaker. The creation of two little states (B.C. and Quebec?) within the larger state of Canada. It can wreck the nation unless the Conservatives are returned in the next election.

B.C.'s current economic prosperity had all its foundations laid by the Conservative government in Ottawa, said Mr. Diefenbaker.

The Diefenbaker administration promoted Canadian trade with the Orient, it provided heavy subsidies for construction of ships including those in the B.C. government ferry fleet, and it poured millions into the Trans-Canada Highway without ever getting any credit for what it had done.

Later, when he demanded on stage "has Bennett ever given us any credit for these things?" the audience responded with a chorus of shouted noes.

But Bennett and B.C. took a back seat to the Pearson Liberals as bogeymen on the Canadian political scene.

Mr. Diefenbaker drew roars of appreciation with his taunting jibes about the government's involvement with furniture deals and racetrack scandals. He grew properly indignant over the "talent of corruption" of the Rival affair.

It was good hustings fare and if there had been an election campaign in progress his Monday night speech here would have won for the Conservatives a lot of votes.

Mr. Diefenbaker, when asked about the imminence of an election, says darkly "the mind of man cannot fathom the peregrinations of the Pearson mentality," but he obviously believes there must be one soon.

He is now busy laying the groundwork for his campaign which will have two main issues: Canadian unity and honesty in government.

Behind-Scenes Drama

Chinese, Nasser Lobby in Algiers

By JOSEPH W. GREGG, from Algiers

A fierce diplomatic struggle is going on behind the scenes of the Algiers Afro-Asian summit conference.

On the surface, the fight is to decide whether the parley will open June 29 as scheduled or whether, in fact, it even will take place at all.

But bigger issues are at stake. Communist China, which has been working persistently to increase its influence throughout Africa and the Middle East, has taken up the fight on behalf of Algeria and is demanding that the conference should take place at all costs.

Algeria's new army-controlled revolutionary government headed by Defence Minister Col. Houari Boumedienne, who took power last Saturday, is anxious that the conference should be held. Because of the prestige it would lend to a government which is trying hard to get support from the Algerian people.

Thus, whether or not the conference does get off the ground, the fact that Communist China has proved Boumedienne's biggest booster in trying to get it started will constitute an important political debt to Peking.

One new and surprising facet in this complicated diplomatic picture is the attitude of United Arab Republic president, Gamal Nasser.

Nasser originally went along with Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and Boumedienne in demanding that the conference should take place.

Yesterday, however, he appeared to have switched sides and to be preparing to pull the rug out from under the new Algerian regime. Nasser's men in Algiers now seem to have orders to work for a postponement.

The reasons for this are obscure. It is a fact that Algeria's ousted former "strong man" president Ahmed Ben Bella was a friend and protege of Nasser. It could hardly have been agreeable for Nasser to see his man in Algiers suddenly toppled by a military revolt. But that was also true Wednesday. Why the indicated change?

Nasser does not seem convinced, apparently, that the Boumedienne government has the popular support to enable it to hang on.

So how will it go?

Will the summit conference be called off or postponed, or will th Chinese and Algerians try to push ahead with a rump meeting?

It would surprise most diplomats if they attempted the latter.

With the UAR and presumably most other Arab states out, and with the British Commonwealth,

Kanester Tried To Threaten Complainant

The former wife of Larry Kanester, charged with the January, 1964 rape of a university of Victoria student, told an assize court jury in Vancouver Thursday her ex-husband sought to have the girl threatened while he was awaiting trial.

The crown charged that Kanester offered a girl student a ride to the university, then drove to a wooded area and attacked her. His car is an exhibit in the trial.

Kanester, through his lawyer, has told the court he had intercourse with the girl but denies raping her.

Employers Not Up-to-Date

Job Service Polishing Its Image

WINNIPEG (CP) — The National Employment Service has launched a campaign — unannounced and behind-the-scenes — to improve its image among employers. William Thomas, of Ottawa, NES national director said Thursday.

The problem, he said, was that many people thought of the NES employment officer as a registrar for unemployed workers.

"Even our own officers often regard themselves as this. We're trying to cure this attitude."

Since April, the NES has been a part of the department of labor and is no longer connected with the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

IMAGE IMPROVING

The image, he said, is improving and 70 per cent of Canadian employers hire their personnel through the service.

Mr. Thomas said one of the greatest challenges to the NES is not to get a professional or skilled worker into a job, but to secure employment for those who are not easily employable.

"We have found jobs for people in wheelchairs. We have even found work for a bedridden woman who separates pieces of cotton and earns money that way."

LABOR PROBLEMS

He said the number of manual jobs had risen slower than the demand for them, and was causing unemployment problems in this field. In professional, managerial and skilled work the picture is quite different.

"We have an acute shortage of these people, in spite of the fact that the number of trainees for better skills rose to 49,000 in 1964 from only 4,000 just five years earlier."

"We're actually beginning to get worried because we're running out of sufficient numbers of persons with enough potential for skilled training."

Traffic was stopped for several hours two days running on Port Alberni-Tofino highway after car plunged 10 feet down embankment. Driver still unidentified by RCMP escaped with only abrasions. Well, it's the E & N Railway's Dayliner, running between Victoria and Courtenay.

Police said Mrs. Millicent Perrin of Cumberland apparently failed to see the Dayliner at a level crossing in Courtenay and crashed her car into the side of the railway car. Approximately $300 damage was caused to Mrs. Perrin's car but the Dayliner escaped damages.

The Dayliner was recently involved in a more serious accident south of Royston when it ran through an open switch, wrecked a box car, damaged the front end of the Dayliner and injured four persons.

Earlier this year the Dayliner collided with a car driven by a young man who was seriously injured and is still in hospital.

For Screen

Mooney
Hits
Spending

The city seems to be spending "all we have" in Centennial Square this year, Ald. Millard Mooney told city council Thursday. It was time, he said, that next year's tax rate was considered.

VOTES NO

The alderman cast the only dissenting vote when council ratified a committee decision to buy an $18,000 screen for exterior of the police station to bring the renovated building into harmony with the remainder of the square.

Ald. Mooney thought the purchase should be delayed. Spending was way up this year, he said, and there should be no hurry in allocating such a large sum.

TIME IS NOW

"The building will look incomplete without this screen. The bars on the jail would show. The time to do such things is right now, before the jail is finished—not later, as an after-thought," said Mayor Wilson.

The matter of the screen has been looked at very carefully and the money is already allocated, said Ald. A. W. Toone.

BUDGET WORRY

"Well, we have to start worrying over next year's budget pretty soon. We have spent away over what we expected to on the square," said Ald. Mooney. "He was reminded by the mayor that when the square was first being planned he (Ald. Mooney) was in favor of a complete new city hall rather than reconstruction of the old one at much less expense.

GREAT ASSET

"I still think a brand new city hall would have been a great asset to the city," Ald. Mooney retorted.

Committee decision to spend $61,000 for equipment for the McPherson Playhouse restaurant was also contested by Ald. Mooney. Furthermore, he wanted more information about Clifford Clarke, operator of the Coach and Four restaurant, with whom the city will negotiate to operate the theatre restaurant.

BE CAREFUL

It was explained that with the short five-year lease the city was restricted to under the terms of the Municipal Act, operators were not willing to make a large capital investment.

The only way the city was able to interest eaters was by installing certain basic equipment like refrigerators, stoves, freezers and some decorations.

"I think we should be very careful. I wouldn't want to see us in the restaurant business," said Ald. Mooney.

Ald. Mooney was told that after exhaustive examination, Mr. Clarke was thought to be most suitable for the job.

Square
Fears
Erased

What is going to happen to Centennial Square now that the city's special projects architect has been lent to Ottawa? Ald. Millard Mooney asked Thursday at a meeting of city council.

The square is so well advanced that it can coast to completion, he was told. Furthermore, the planning and designing for Bastion Square is complete and tenders could be called any time for rehabilitation of the historic area.

OTTAWA SUMMONS

Mayor Wilson said that a letter was received from the federal centennial commission asking that architect Roderick Clack be seconded to Ottawa for six months.

"A meeting was held and all members of council were contacted except you, Ald. Mooney," Mayor Wilson said. "We tried to get in touch with you for two days, and were unable to do so."

MUST GO

If Ottawa summoned, it was important that Mr. Clack go, said Ald. Mooney, but he hoped the square and the other plans made for the city's improvement would not suffer by his absence.

Mr. Clack assured aldermen that he would be available for consultation if trouble arose, the mayor said.

He added that there was an impression in Ottawa that Victoria was not interested in getting going on Bastion Square this year. That impression had been dispelled.

Rumor Fraud Investigated

By HARVEY YOUNG
Business Editor

The New York stock exchange is conducting a formal investigation into the false rumor that President Johnson on June 9 suffered a heart attack.

The rumor began shortly after the market opened at 10 a.m. and produced a downturn in stock prices that continued until a White House denial about noon.

The Stock Exchange has probed into trading by its members on June 9, and is examining private wire messages sent out by members that day in the hope of tracking down the source of the rumor.

The investigators are paying particular attention to any details in which member "sold short" immediately prior to the circulation of the rumor.

Fraud is suspected.

CORRECTION OVERDUE

Buy or sell?

One U.S. firm of security analysts in its current issue has turned from cautious optimism to a mild form of bearishness.

It regards the current technical correction as "long overdue" and has resulted in more attractive prices for a number of good quality equities.

But it also believes an on-going rally will also be technical and one that should be utilized to minimize losses and protect profits on stocks not held for investment purposes.

Sophisticated investment confidence has been shaken by the weak British financial situation, developments in Viet Nam and government moves to accelerate the economy.

MONEY SUPPLY EASIER

The supply of short term money was slightly easier this week, and Thursday yield on 90 days Government of Canada treasury bills dropped from last week's two and a half years' peak of 3.84 per cent to 3.81 per cent.

The easing of the rate was stated by money market experts to be due to increased Bank of Canada support for the economy.

CARIBOO RESULTS

Cariboo Gold Quartz Mining had a net profit of $32,000 in the first five months of 1965. Production was 8,000 ounces of gold valued at $287,700, including government subsidy.

The company has surveyed its 12 claims in Nova Scotia which are adjacent to those of Mariner Mines where an extensive exploration program is under way.

SHORTEST OF TRUCKS

Mount Washington Milling Company states it is mining and milling at the rate of 700 tons a day at its operation 25 miles west of Courtenay.

Starting up was postponed owing to snow conditions, and the present flow of ore from the mine to the mill is restricted by a shortage of trucks.

Level of earnings of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines and Labrador Mining and Exploration Company should both be sustained in 1965 at the 1964 level, said A. L. Fairley, presi-

Liberal MP Claims:

Innocent Jailed Should Be Paid

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Merfolk Liberal Jack Roxburgh believes people found not guilty after spending time in jail awaiting trial should be paid damages and compensation.

He also thinks all accused found not guilty should be paid their expenses and compensation set by a judge.

BILL PREPARED

So at the next private member's hour he intends to introduce a bill urging the government consider amending the criminal code to provide such payment.

He described Canadian laws which permit people to be held in custody for long periods, then released without compensation as "unbelievable and deplorable."

SUFFER LOSS

"I am sure we all realize regardless of precautions taken by public authorities, innocent individuals may unavoidably become the objects of criminal prosecutions and suffer financial and other losses."

"The very fact that this risk exists, makes it imperative that the public treasury bear the loss suffered by the unfortunate

Five trucks now on the job are working at capacity and two more have been ordered, by which time it is hoped to step up operations to over 1,000 tons a day.

A stockpile is required to keep the mill going during the winter months, the company reports.

J. W. Powell, president, said the company's earned surplus after payment of preferred dividends was $365,645 for the first 34 months of operations.

Massey-Ferguson expects improved sales and profits in the last two quarters of its current financial year, ending Oct. 31.

In the six months ended April 30, Massey-Ferguson sales were $136,864, for a net profit of $8,112,000 (54 cents) against sales of $132,745,000 and net profit of $11,005,000 ($1.51) a year ago.

Mr. Thornborough expected 1965 sales and profit would be about the 1964 record level.

Seagram's salesmen used to have a tough time selling 83

Our salesmen got a lot of calluses but sold very little whisky back in 1833. People wanted whisky that burned all the way down.

And 83 was smooth, civilised, easy tasting whisky.

Joseph Seagram refused to make it taste any other way. He would have lost his shirt, excepting that a strange thing happened. As years went by, the taste of people changed. They wanted smoother and smoother and lighter and lighter whisky. And 83 was there to give them exactly what they wanted. So 83, the flop, became 83, the hit.

Gas Exploration 'Normal Process'

OTTAWA (CP) — Resources Minister Laing said Thursday his department followed "perfectly normal procedure" in granting an oil and gas exploration permit covering 8,300,000 acres in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

"We took this action on the basis of an agreement signed by 22 nations under the Law of the Sea which gives jurisdiction over such offshore resources to the country whose land is adjacent," Mr. Laing told a reporter.

He made the statement following criticism of the federal action by Premier Lesage of Quebec.

Mr. Lesage told the provincial legislature in Quebec City Wednesday he was shocked by Ottawa's decision to grant the full permit to Pan American Petroleum Corp. of Calgary.

Request By B.C. Denied

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada Thursday rejected a request from the British Columbia attorney-general's office asking that Robert MacDonald of Vancouver be sentenced to preventive detention.

The court said in a 5-2 decision that it doesn't have the jurisdiction to hear appeals from either the Crown or accused persons from decisions by provincial courts of appeal on sentences of preventive detention.

MacDonald, 38, was found to be an habitual criminal by a Vancouver magistrate last December and sentenced to preventive detention.

However the B.C. Court of Appeal substituted a year in prison for the sentence because it believed there wasn't sufficient evidence to find beyond a reasonable doubt that MacDonald should be put away for the public safety.

The provinces would seek to have a supreme court of Canada test case on the subject withdrawn on grounds that "offshore rights are a political question, not a legal one."

Mr. Laing said that while he did not want to get into a political argument with Mr. Lesage, the premier's own action on Gulf of St. Lawrence rights undoubtedly will involve legal action.

"It seems to me this is an admission on his part that this is a legal matter that should be referred to the courts. That's exactly what we have done."

The federal government already has asked the Supreme Court of Canada to rule on the jurisdictional question in regard to competing claims by Ottawa and British Columbia over offshore rights on the Pacific Coast.

Legal Study Given Report on Police

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor William Rathie announced to the attorney-general.

Mr. Rathie said the investigations stemmed from the Feb. 11 $1,200,000 mutilated money holdup here, and the subsequent murder-suicide deaths of Const. Leonard Hogue, his wife and six children.

Mr. Murray will also be asked if the investigations have exhausted all sources of information, and whether other sources should be considered, the mayor said.

He said the lawyer's examination is to start Monday, and be completed by July 10.

Appeal Court Affirms Jury

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Court of Appeal has affirmed the jurisdiction of county courts to conduct trial by jury.

The appeal court on Wednesday ruled against Herbert Singh Carter, a prisoner who questioned provincial legislation that established criminal jury trials in county court.

Other points made in Carter's appeal from a conviction on a mischief charge arising from damage to Oakalla prison fixtures in a riot last May 10 will be heard in September.

Carter, already serving a B.C. penitentiary term for another offence, had been jailed for an additional year on the mischief charge.

Reasons for the judgment against Carter on the constitutional question were not immediately available. Because a constitutional question was involved, five appeal court judges heard the case.

LITTLE FALLS, Minn. — A municipal court jury Wednesday acquitted Raymond Wilcock, who dug a trench across a township road to siphon off water flooding his farm fields. He said he had complained for 15 years that two culverts under the road were too small.

LAWNS

If your lawn is in bad shape, looks yellow and is full of weeds and moss, it is time to try different methods to bring it back to life.

Chemical fertilizers act only for a short while and tend to make synthetic lawns which have little or no resistance against the impact of hot summer weather. Topsoil, which will build up a heavy layer of turf, is in such cases usually the only remedy. Topsoil which is infested with weeds or contains a high percentage of clay, is for such purposes, however, less than useless.

different refrigerators on the market. When you've finished reading this, the choice will be narrowed down to six!

You'll pay about the same price per cubic foot for any refrigerator or refrigerator-freezer. But you won't necessarily get the same kind of value. The significant difference between different models is in the quality of the engineering and in the number and variety of the special features they offer. Admiral is famous for both.

Only Admiral, for example, gives you a Lifetime Warranty on food compartments and door bins. Exclusive Admiral Glass-Lock doors stay-looking, won't chip or peel and won't rust. They're molded in one strong piece, without seams, and all the corners are rounded to make cleaning quick and easy.

Admiral's famous "Penny Pincher" power unit is sealed in and for day-in, day-out dependability—and guaranteed for five years. And Admiral even thinks of the little things—like multi-fit door hinges that allow you to make the very most of every inch of kitchen space.

Admiral refrigerators and refrigerator-freezers are sold from 8 cu. ft. to 18 cu. ft. and priced from about $240 to about $875.

Ask your Admiral dealer to show you the Admiral Duplex 18. It's Canada's biggest value in refrigerator-freezers, designed "side-by-side" for unequalled convenience. It gives you big capacity, all the features you want and fits into less than three feet of kitchen floor space.

If the idea of buying a new refrigerator or refrigerator-freezer leaves your husband cold... then we suggest a trip to your nearest Admiral dealer. When he compares Admiral features, Admiral styling and Admiral prices with the others, he may begin to warm to the idea!

Herbs in Vogue

By M. V. CHESTNUT

The current craze for outdoor cooking has had one rather unexpected effect—it has stimulated a new interest in herbs. Nowadays, the well-equipped barbecue has a small herb garden nearby so the outdoor chef can reach with a flourish for snippets of this or that to enhance the flavor of his charcoal-grilled steaks.

Most of our common herbs are grown for their leaves and, as far as we are concerned, the production of flowers and seeds is just a waste of energy. It is a good idea, therefore, to cut back our herbs occasionally to prevent flowering and to stimulate the growth of fresh young leaves.

Thyme, sage, marjoram and winter savory may be cut back around the end of June and the beds cleaned up. The growth cut away may be spread out on newspapers in the sun to dry. When dry, the leaves are then crushed with a rolling pin and stored in air-tight jars for winter use. Cuttings of all these herbs root readily at this time of year if dipped in a hormone rooting powder and inserted in a shady bed of sandy soil or in a coldframe.

Like parsley, dried mint is pretty and mint—certainly we use more of it than any other herb. Mint sauce is a must, of course, with a leg of lamb or lamb chops. We serve mint jelly not only with cold meats but in jelly omelets and with scrambled eggs. Green peas, baby limas and new potatoes are always cooked with a sprig of mint in them, while night-balls and all tall drinks take on a new glamor when garnished with mint.

Unlike the first mentioned group, these herbs should be dried slowly and in the shade, for the characteristic aroma and flavor will be lost or weakened by exposure to sunlight. When thoroughly dry, the leaves are rubbed off and stored in airtight jars. The old practice of hanging bunches of herbs in the attic until needed has little to recommend it; under such treatment, the leaves lose nearly all their aromatic oils.

Parsley is in demand the year round, and while it is possible to dry this herb too for winter use, dried parsley hasn't the eye appeal—nor the flavor—of green stuff. A better plan is to pot up a few plants in the fall to grow on the kitchen windowsill, handy for garnishing the poached eggs.

The most valued herb in our garden is mint—certainly we use more of it than any other herb. Mint sauce is a must, of course, with a leg of lamb or lamb chops. We serve mint jelly not only with cold meats but in jelly omelets and with scrambled eggs. Green peas, baby limas and new potatoes are always cooked with a sprig of mint in them, while night-balls and all tall drinks take on a new glamor when garnished with mint.

To make the concentrate, dissolve one pound of sugar in one quart of vinegar and boil for 10 minutes. Reduce to a simmer and add washed and chopped mint leaves until the mixture thickens to the consistency of jam, then bottle in sterilized jars. To make your mint sauce, place a spoonful of the concentrate in a dish and add a little hot water.

You Can't Buy Fun

JACK SMITH

Americans don't have much fun. They don't seem to know how. They have always been a sober folk, full of seal, pliety and purpose.

Even when their purpose is fun, they pursue it with puritan austerity. Observe the bleak faces at a cocktail party.

They try to buy fun. They spend millions on games, entertainments and adult toys, but mostly they merely tire them.

Their national sports are commercial enterprises which allow no nonsense than a chain of savings and loan banks. Employees of baseball teams are fined if they err. Sometimes they weep.

Even the games of children are corrupted. Their elders organize, manage and commercialize their spontaneous "play" into a sad copy of the athletics business.

It isn't that the knack for fun has been bred out of the American character. Some children have it. They turn somersaults, skip rope, jump over hedges, run about in the twilight waving their arms like a bat, walk barefoot in icy streams and otherwise express their aliveness, with no purpose but the sheer fun of it.

Some U.S. astronauts apparently have the knack, too; and everyone should be glad.

Anxious millions were wonderfully enchanted when Maj. Ed White walked in space. It was more refreshing, I thought, than anything since Douglas Corrigan flew the wrong way, so many years ago.

It is that the knack for fun has been bred out of the American character. Some children have it. They turn somersaults, skip rope, jump over hedges, run about in the twilight waving their arms like a bat, walk barefoot in icy streams and otherwise express their aliveness, with no purpose but the sheer fun of it.

Wind has been the bugbear of salmon sports fisherman, but whenever and wherever anglers have been able to get on the water success has been fair to good.

Off Otter Point on Friday we used a Super Strip-Teaser trolled quickly with one pound of weight, no flasher, on 100 feet of line to produce an 18-pound spring just before the change of tide at 11 a.m. Other anglers have been getting them in those waters up to 30 pounds. On Saturday 53 boats checked on the water in the Sooke area reported seven heavy springs, nine jacksprings and one humpy.

Secretary Island, off Sooke, is one of the better spots for the big springs and we have heard of a second humpback (pink) from west coast waters.

There are plenty of launching spots for Sooke area fishing. Try Juan De Fuca Auto Court and Sooke Bay Resort, off Ellis Road, for Otter Point and Secretary Island fishing. Art Bailey's Sooke Harbor Marina and Sunny Shores at Sooke both have concrete ramps with short runs to the mouth of the harbor at Whiffen Spit and on to Secretary Island and Beechey fishing. Jim Nees' Sooke Basic Marina off Kaitan Road has boat rentals and high tide launching and is also an easy taking off spot for Secretary Island and Beechey Head fishing.

All the above spots are King Fisherman weigh-in stations and in addition in the Sooke area you can weigh-in at Jones Grocery near the Sooke River bridge, at the Jordan River Hotel, or while driving home, at Jenkins at Metchosin, Langford Lake Store, Reid's Low Cost at Colwood corner, or Alex's Store.

A fairly large school of small coho and spring salmon in the three to 4½-pound bracket hit Finlayson Arm, Willis Point, Coal Bay and Deep Cove waters of Saanich Inlet last weekend and provided limit catches (of four salmon any size) for a person for some anglers.

Chesterfield Rock to the Narrows provided fairly hot fishing on Minnow-Teasers, Strip-Teasers and Mac's Squid plug.

Rough water has hampered Oak Bay, but those that get out have been picking up some big springs.

In Cowichan Bay and San Juan Narrows waters Sunday fisheries checked six boats for four coho. In Satellite Net to Action 23 boats tallied four coho and one 30-pound spring.

Sunday's boat checks in Coffin Point-Yellow Point-Boat Harbor waters between Ladysmith and Nanaimo saw 18 boats with 15 springs, one jackspring and 44 coho. All the boats had fish.

Early morning fishing and a green Hootchie Kootchie proved best combination.

In Flat Top Islands-Thrasher Rock waters off Nanaimo 23 boats had one spring, six jacks and 45 coho and again all boats had fish with Tom Mack spoons and herring strip best lure.

In Nanaimo at Nanaimo Bay waters 29 boats had two jacksprings and 25 coho. Nine of the boats had no catch.

Seven boats checked six boats for four coho. In Satellite Net to Action 23 boats tallied four coho and one 30-pound spring.

John Cushing reports Deep Bay fishing for coho now weighing up to 7½ pounds continues very good.

Eleven boats checked Sunday in Comox area reported no catch.

Fishing in the Campbell River-Discovery Passage waters was pretty hot early last week, dropped off when hampered by winds, and started to pick up Monday. When we arrived at Fernell Court Saturday to buy bait, Homer Ben had just come in with a limit of nice coho from the Cape Mudge waters off the lighthouse. He got them on a red Hotshot plug which has been a killer in the Campbell River waters.

But the fishing slacked off until Monday when it seemed everybody got fish. We managed to click in our party on Minnow-Teaser with frozen candlefish and with Henry Smith spoon. When the bite was on a couple of ounces and a very short line seemed to get the coho. Almost before the line was out they would snap.

We fished the Cape Mudge area for coho, but the rest of our party clicked with spring salmon, up to 14 pounds, in the Duncan Bay area, fishing right around the booms and the palm mill effluent.

There appears to be little slackening off in freshwater fishing with all lakes, especially the bigger lakes, still good bays and rivers producing cutthroats at the mouth. Harris Creek and San Juan River were pretty hot for summer steelhead at the weekend. Now is the time for the Stamp and Taylor River. Rivers are getting pretty low for best fishing and PLEASE, OH PLEASE, WATCH FOR FIRE. There were two fires in that Tahsis Road north Island area at the weekend, not necessarily started through carelessness, but let's not leave ourselves open for blame.

Fishing derbies upcoming include the Chinook Club derby in Saanich Inlet Sunday, the Cayuse trout derby on Cowichan Lake Saturday and the Jaycee salmon derby in the Campbell River area July 1.

The grave old golf statisticians will be in their seventh heavens at next month's British Open. One new record after another is going to be set—and broken.

This is not really brave Faulkner forecasting. Royal Birkdale, host club for the big event, has redesigned the course so radically that the first completed round will constitute a new record—even if it runs into three figures.

It's unlikely to live for more than half an hour, and could well be smashed ten or a dozen times in the opening day.

Briefly, for those who might have nostalgic memories of these historic links, a new short 12th hole comes into operation and the old short 17th—once a welcome haven just one hole from home—has gone to the wall.

Add to this fact that the tees have been cut—further back than ever before, and you find yourself tackling a course that now rank among the toughest in the world.

The run-in over the back nine is now probably THE sternest test of them all.

Better for Spectators

These alterations have been largely made with the admirable motive of transforming Royal Birkdale into a spectators' paradise on the big occasion.

It's always been a good course for watchers, with its high sandhills giving grandstand views for all the "action points" of the game. Now, the massive earthworks operations have turned it into the super-luxury class.

But there is another thought. What effect is it all going to have on Britain's chances of ending the drought in home victories?

Bashfulness always overtakes me at this time of year when I have to confess, with some pride but very little joy, that I am the last Briton to have won the Open. And that was 14 years ago.

Not that it's only post-war British golfers who have failed to deliver the goods. If you go back to 1922, the tally since then is 10 wins to Britain compared with 27 by American or Commonwealth challengers.

If the arguments of recent years hold good, it is the power-play of the invaders that has left Britain at the starting-gate. Yet the new look Royal Birkdale is now essentially a power-player's course.

The outlook then, from this range, is bleak for Britain once again. On the face of it we should be able to match the world over the first nine holes, only to be straggling over the last nine.

Why Not in South?

But perhaps I'm being pessimistic. There are two weeks to go before I traditionally commit myself to compiling the Faulkner Starting Prices. And I reserve the right to name a few surprises as men with a chance.

Meantime my friends in the south of England may well be wondering where on earth it is going to be their turn to share the dramas of Britain's really big golf events.

They have a point. Not only in this year's Open being played at Royal Birkdale, but so in the Ryder Cup in October.

Yet, as I've written before in this column, most of the overseas stars regard Wentworth, 30 miles south of London, as the greatest competitive course in the British Isles. Why is that Wentworth doesn't get more of the breaks?

I've heard this point argued again and again and I have to point out, as gently as possible, that perhaps the top event of last year—the Phoenix World Match Play tournament which produced that thrilling final between Arnold Palmer and Neil Coles—was fought on that very course.

Wentworth was on trial on that occasion, then I'm afraid I have to report that, as a commercial proposition, it failed the test.

Marvellous test of golf though it is, it remains a nightmare place for the spectators. The massive spectator jams down its fairways proved that it really cannot cope with the huge crowds that major golf is now attracting.

It is just this point that Royal Birkdale, with an eye to the future, put first in their replanning. And whether we pros like it or not when we come to do battle there next month, the priorities are right.

Golf is at last waking up to the fact that the PUBLIC comes first.

Banner Sports Year At Oak Bay School

School is out and the students of Oak Bay Senior High School can look back on the most successful athletic program in school history.

The total reads like this: two provincial championships, two Vancouver Island and two lower Island titles, and eight Greater Victoria championships.

Perhaps the biggest crown was the B.C. boys' high school basketball championship, won after similar victories in city, lower Island and Island tournaments. The other provincial title was brought home by the Colonist Cup champion senior soccer team.

The girl's basketball squad was city and lower Island champion and took the consolation final in the provincial tournament.

Oak Bay's track and field team tied Claremont for the Vancouver Island crown after taking the city title.

Other Greater Victoria titles were taken by the school swimming, badminton, cross-country and golf teams.

Ticehurst Eliminated

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four top-rated Vancouver golfers were knocked out of the B.C. Amateur Golf Championship Thursday, including last year's defending champion Bert Ticehurst.

Ticehurst, who took the 1964 title with ease, was beaten by Doug Gardner 8-4 in Thursday's opening match competition at the Point Grey Golf and Country Club.

Also eliminated were Mike Kuzek, Jim Seed and John Johnson.

Accompanying Gardner in Friday's semi-finals are three other Vancouver golfers, John Russell, Wayne Vollmer and Terry Campbell.

Ticehurst squeezed into last place Wednesday after 72 holes in medal play eliminations. He was unable to take advantage of his birth on the eighth hole, which may play flight. He succumbed to Gardner's booming tee shots and top-rated putting ability during Thursday's 18 holes.

Ticehurst had a four-round total of 288, while Gardner finished the eliminations in fourth position with a 284.

The Point Grey club's course continued its winning ways by downing Mike Kuzek 2-1.

Russell had finished the medal play eliminations in first spot with a 280, while Kuzek's 284 had been good for a fourth-place tie with Gardner.

VOLLMER WINS

Wayne Vollmer, former Canadian golf champion, downed Jim Seed 3-2. The 20-year-old university student's 286 at end of medal play put him in second place, while Seed had tied Terry Campbell for fifth place, with 285.

Campbell best third-place John Johnston 3-1 Thursday in the second upset of the day.

Veteran Johnston was fighting his way to the "B" as well as stiff competition from younger players.

Winners of Friday's Russell-Campbell and Vollmer-Gardner matches will play Saturday for the B.C. Amateur title.

Women Golfers Start Team Trials

Twenty women golfers from Victoria and the mainland, including 11-time city champion Margaret Todd of Victoria, will compete Saturday and Sunday at Gorge Vale and Uplands golf clubs in the Canadian Ladies Golf Union team trials.

Action begins at 12:30 p.m.

Saturday at Gorge Vale, then moves to Uplands for Sunday's competitions which begin at 1 p.m.

The four lowest gross scorers from the four rounds will make up the B.C. women's team in the Canadian Open to be played July 29 and 30 at the Westmount Golf and Country Club in Kitchener-Waterloo, Ontario.

Public 'Grown Careless'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A forestry expert warned Wednesday British Columbia is in for a bad fire season.

J. C. Sheasgreen made the prediction as 271 men and 26 bulldozers fought 27 fires in one area alone, the sprawling Prince George fire district covering North Central B.C.

There are five forest districts in the province.

Mr. Sheasgreen, president of the Canadian Forestry Association of B.C., said foresters face the problem of overcoming public complacency about fires because of three previous wet summers. Last year had an unusually good fire season.

"Three wet summers have conditioned people to drop their guard. They have grown careless," he said.

A Prince George forest service spokesman Thursday said seven new fires, none serious, were reported in the district overnight. He said more are expected in the wake of a lightning storm Wednesday.

He said the area's two major blazes, covering 2,800 and 3,850 acres, were under control following wind-sparked flare-ups.

A forest service spokesman for the Kamloops district, 150 miles northeast of Vancouver, said Thursday eight new fires broke out overnight. Water bombers were used to quell three while helicopters lifted crews in to control the others.

The spokesman said 18 fires were burning in the Kamloops district as the fire hazard increased after a day's respite.

In an interview in Vancouver, Mr. Sheasgreen said enough timber has burnt in B.C. during the past 15 years to supply an 800-man sawmill for 25 years.

The commission said about 1,000 permits have been sold to residents of Idaho, and about 2,100 to Oregon residents.

A commission spokesman said outsiders from smaller communities probably want to buy in larger centres, but those in cities like Portland and Vancouver have less reason to cross the border.

OLYMPIA (CP)—Canadians don't appear too interested in obtaining Washington state sales tax exemption permits, on sale in the state for $1.

The state tax commission said Thursday only about 160 of the permits, which have been on sale for three weeks, have been sold to Canadians in Bellingham and Port Angeles.

The permits allow out-of-state visitors to purchase goods without paying the state's 4.2 per cent sales tax.

The commission said about 1,000 permits have been sold to

Proposal Deadline Nears

No Project Unity

By A. H. MURPHY

Neither Greater Victoria, its municipal components nor Saanich can seem to make up their minds about a 1967 centennial project, but there has been no lack of suggestions from other sources. Forty have been tabulated so far.

It is known that municipal conversations are going on, and that the idea of a stadium for the whole area is the project which is receiving the most active support, but no formal or even firm suggestion has been made to the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee, and June 26 is the final day for proposals.

A meeting of the projects sub-committee is being held Monday night. Some positive suggestion may be forthcoming from the municipalities at that time.

Sort Proposals

Committee chairman Walter Dowsorth of Oak Bay said Thursday that after Wednesday's deadline the committee will begin to weed out and sort through the proposals received thus far.

A list of the most practical will be made, and this will be submitted to municipal councils after which it will go on to the intermunicipal committee for consideration.

If the intermunicipal committee decides on a project, the proposal will go to the provincial level, where it will be considered by the B.C. centennial commission. Final step is the federal commission, which allocates funds.

No Extension

There will be about $450,000 in federal funds available for a district project.

Mr. Dowsorth added that whether or not proposals are received from Greater Victoria and Saanich, or from the combined area as a whole, it is doubtful that the committee will make a further extension of time for submitting projects.

The stadium proposal has come from many sources, including Rev. Hugh Curtis of Saanich, who proposed that a 30- to 40-acre site be obtained and a multi-purpose edifice be built to house 10,000 to 15,000 people.

Stadiums Support

Also for a stadium is the Centennial Stadium Committee from the Victoria Sports Council, the Cosmopolitan Club of Victoria, and the Victoria and District Amateur Basketball Association.

Sports centres of various types have been suggested, from huge complexes to indoor courts for basketball.

Victoria Labor Council would like to see an adult education centre with a program to retrain unemployed men for other occupations and so remove them from welfare rolls and make them "self-supporting, tax-paying citizens."

A university residence for students, to cost between $300,000 and $400,000, was proposed by Judge J. B. Cleary, chancellor of the University of Victoria.

Gorge Included

Development of the Gorge waterway would fulfill all requirements for a centenary memorial, in the opinion of the University Women's Club of Victoria.

Another proposal to build a pipeline from Esquimalt Harbor to Portage Inlet was referred to the intermunicipal committee from Victoria City Council.

A salt-water swimming pool at Cadboro Bay was the suggestion of S. T. Fitzpatrick, who emphasized the area is eminently suited to such a development.

A glazed-in swimming pool with allied sports facilities could provide "a little bit of Florida here," said a letter from Mrs. B. Butler.

Herbert Taylor of Toronto thought the making of an historical documentary film would be a good idea, and Dr. W. Carton Whiteside of Victoria proposed a marionette theatre for Hornbeam Bay, an elaborate facility for swimming, drama and other activities, the whole to be enclosed by a dome-like structure.

Arts Centre

Among the other suggestions: a planetarium, an aquarium, a centre for performing arts, competitions for painting, literature, sculpture, drama and music, a parkway from Searles Bay to Dallas Road, development of the Inner Harbor, glass-domed scenes launches, installation of a railing on the breakwater at Ogden Point, tree-planting, a centennial park, and an agricultural and livestock building.

Establishment of a junior college at Lansdowne campus was urged, as was the conversion of Smith's Hill reservoir into a sunken garden, an additional wing at the art gallery and the construction of a new public library.

Third Place

Officer Candidate Gordon Graham, 22, of RCM preparatory school, HMCS Naden, placed third among 200 B.C. students in exam of Canadian Association of Physicists. His home is in Vernon.

Provincial Economy Continues To Show Good Gains

Most sectors of the B.C. economy continued to show strong gains during March and April, Trade Minister Loffmark said in his latest economic report Thursday.

There are indications, however, that shortage of skilled miners and other tradesmen is hampering expansion for the province's mining industry.

Account Deficit Shows Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada had a current account deficit of $405,000,000 in the first quarter of 1965 in its balance of payments with foreign countries, the bureau of statistics reported Thursday.

This compared with a deficit of $343,000,000 in the first quarter of 1964 and a deficit of $453,000,000 for the whole of 1964.

Crash Blaze Kills Woman

VERNON (CP) — A 20-year-old woman died in hospital here Wednesday night from injuries received Sunday when her car was in collision with another. Police said Marcelle Friesen's car had burst into flames after the collision.

Tourist permits in April showed a 16 per cent increase.

Here's Armed Forces Day

Navy, Esquimalt Wed 100 Years

By BOB PETHICK

One hundred years of naval and Esquimalt history will be celebrated Saturday when the army, navy and air force turn out for the first Armed Forces Day since integration of the services began.

But they'll be taking a peek into the future as well.

A model of the Canadian-built satellite Alouette will be on display in the electrical workshop at HMC Dockyard.

Built by the defence research board to sound electron density in the earth's ionosphere the real Alouette satellite was launched in 1962 from Vandenberg Air Force Base and since that time has filled more than 7,000 miles of recording tape with space information — and brother that's a lot of tape.

Many Attractions

The satellite is but one of the many attractions planned in celebrations which mark the navy's 100th birthday in Esquimalt.

Officially Esquimalt became a base for the Royal Navy in 1864 but has been well-known to British naval vessels since 1944.

But even before that in 1770 the occasional yell of Ole might have been heard in the harbor and for good reason.

The first vessel in the harbor was the Spanish ship Princess Real captained by Don Manuel Quimper. He christened the harbor Puerto De Cerdova.

First in 1844

The British first anchored HMS Modeste in the harbor in 1844. She was followed by four more naval ships in 1845.

A street called Constance in Esquimalt was named after HMS Constance, a 30-gun frigate which dropped anchor in 1848. There followed a steady stream of naval ships using the harbor until 1865 when the Royal Navy officially declared it a base.

It was classified as an RN base until 1910 when the Canadian Navy was formed and HMCS Rainbow, the first ship in Canada's west coast naval fleet was stationed there.

Open to Public

In the same harbor where the Rainbow tied up three modern ships will be open to the public during open house from 2 to 4 p.m. The destroyer-escort Qu'Appelle, ocean escort Journeycake and the American destroyer USS Twining will welcome visitors.

The big day will start with a pancake breakfast at the sports centre parking lot at 7:30 a.m.

At 10 a.m. a parade of floats, bands, the Esquimalt May queen and her princesses and the armed forces will form up on Old Esquimalt Road near Hood Street. The route will be Hood Street, Esquimalt Road, Admirals Road and Lyall Street to Buller Park.

Races Start

At 11 a.m. children's races, novelty races and the Esquimalt Anglers Association will get into the act.

At noon there will be a navy diving and demolition display, an air sea rescue display and an army display in Saxe Point Park.

Other events on the schedule: 1:45 p.m., tree planting by Esquimalt Garden Club in municipal hall grounds 2:45 p.m., open house at HMC Dockyard and naval technical school; 3 to 7 p.m., rose show in Jubilee Hall; 3 p.m., cairn unveiling at HMC Dockyard, and fly past of RCAF and RCN.

Drill Display

Also, 5 p.m., band and drill corps display; 7 p.m., tennis matches, lacrosse, and Y gymnasts exhibition; 7 p.m., variety concert at rear of sports centre; 9 p.m., adults and teen dance, sports centre parking lot. Lions Club and square dance at Jubilee Hall.

Stored in the cairn which will be unveiled at 3 p.m. are copies of Victoria's daily newspapers, the Pacific Command Lookout, HMC Dockyard News; and other navy publications. Pacific Command telephone directory, a list of officers on the staff of the flag officer, commander superintendent and officers of the staff of HMCS Naden, a set of 10 pictures of the old dockyard and corresponding pictures of today, a picture of the cairn and two Esquimalt naval base commemorative tokens.

Armed forces celebrations round out Sunday with an open house at VU-33 the RCN's air squadron at Patricia Bay where there will be displays of everything from firefighting to parachuting. Gates will be open from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

The three-universities capital fund has called a recess in Victoria until January, 1966, to leave the fund-raising field to the United Appeal.

Victoria chairman R. J. Bower indicated Tuesday the Vancouver Island division will have raised the $1,000,000 mark before the end of July.

Divisions affected by the recess will be the corporate and personal gifts divisions.

Wrapping-up operations in the professional, employees and residential divisions are expected to end within the next month.

AVOID OVERLAP

The recess was called at the request of the Community Chest of Greater Victoria "to avoid duplication of appeals" during the United Appeal Campaign from July to December, Mr. Bower said.

"Many section chairmen and canvassers now working on the university appeal are also assisting with the United Appeal, and if the campaign for the tri-university capital fund were to continue beyond June 30, there would be necessity of a duplication of both manpower and appeals to donors," he said.

"This could be detrimental to both campaigns and an inconvenience to the public," he added.

ISLAND GOAL

Mr. Bower emphasized the fund was not an annual appeal but a five-year program to assist in financing the growth of the University of Victoria.

"We anticipate that before the end of July the fund will stand over $1,000,000."

"With the Vancouver Island goal of $1,500,000, that leaves only $500,000 to go, not an impossible task," he said.

"The total fund now stands at well over $16,000,000, and our share, based on the amount collected here, stands at $2,500,000."

"The government's share, on the same basis, is $4,700,000."

"As of now, we have a guarantee of $7,200,000 for the University of Victoria," he said.

OVERALL TARGET

Mr. Bower pointed out total objective for the fund is $28,000,000, "still some distance to go."

"When we have achieved this, the university here will receive $18,000,000."

"In order to get the other $2,000,000 here, we must collect another $500,000 in the early part of next year."

"We have two-thirds of our objective in Victoria and on the Island, and the picture is gratifying," he added.

He referred to the decision of the Centennial Square committee to buy on the basis of prices supplied earlier by successful bidders when tenders were called for furnishings for City Hall and the McPherson Playhouse.

In a report to council, the committee said that formal tenders were not called "due to the need for these furnishings, draperies and equipment being available for the opening of the Senior Citizens' Centre at as early a date as possible."

Researcher Joins Staff

Latest appointment to the University of Victoria faculty is Dr. Clyde Pope.

Appointed assistant professor with the anthropology and sociology department, he has specialized in community services.

He holds a B.A. from Anderson University and a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago.

Dr. Pope has done research work on the community services in the first week of August. City manager Dennis Young told aldermen Thursday their decision would delay the opening for a month.

"DISTURBED"

During the council meeting a letter was read from Standard Furniture Ltd., asking that the firm be allowed to supply prices.

"I agree that there is a departure here from a basic principle. I have been rather disturbed about it and I do not think it is right," said Mayor Wilson.

Mr. Young said tenders were called for earlier purchases for City Hall and the theatre. At that time open tenders were to be allowed.

"This is not right. Purchases of this size should be strictly on a competitive basis. I am rather surprised at the committee's decision in this case," said Ald. Millard Mooney.

The city's policy of competitive purchasing was upheld Thursday when city council reversed a committee decision to buy $18,000 worth of furniture and equipment without tender.

"This is not right. Purchases of this size should be strictly on a competitive basis. I am rather surprised at the committee's decision in this case," said Ald. Millard Mooney.

It was hoped to open the in Portland, Ore.

Campbell Briefs Officials

Mini-Metro Start In Capital Just Months Away

By GARY OAKES

A limited form of joint services—under mini-metro—is coming to the capital region, probably this year.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell laid the foundations for a regional joint services board at a meeting of municipal leaders Thursday night.

CAPITAL REGION

For official purposes, Mr. Campbell suggested the area should be known as the Regional District of the Capital of B.C., but could be popularly called the Capital Region of B.C.

Its members would be Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Central Saanich and Sidney, and the unorganized areas of Colwood, Langford, Metchosin, North Saanich, Sooke and View Royal.

ITS FUNCTIONS

• Regional and community planning, including zoning, building and sub-division regulations for the unorganized areas;

• Control and responsibility for the continuing regional sewer surveys excluding Sooke;

• Regional parks, excluding Sooke and Esquimalt;

• Hospital survey to determine present and future needs;

• Control of the sale and use of firework.

Mr. Campbell explained the proposed board's functions are limited because "we don't want to put too much gas in this vehicle to start with."

MORE FUNCTIONS

He said other functions could easily be added to the board in the future.

Department officials will meet various municipal officials to work out the board's "letters patent," which specifically spell out the functions of any joint services board.

RATEPAYERS DECIDE

A municipality not wishing to participate in a particular function, Mr. Campbell explained, can put it to the ratepayers to decide.

The process of opting out of a particular function, Mr. Campbell explained, is for the ratepayers to vote against the function.

GENERAL HAPPY

Dr. Hughes Opens Fete

TULFORD — A sunny day brought everyone out to the lovely gardens of Mrs. A. House, where a garden party was being held under the auspices of the Burgoynes Bay United Church Women.

The affair was opened by Dr. Norah Hughes, who is leaving the Island after five years or more as minister of the United Church on Salt Spring Island.

Introduced by Mrs. H. Dickens, Dr. Hughes was presented with a corsage and a parting gift.

She declared the tea open and cautioned the crowd not to "mob the stalls" which they promptly proceeded to do. The sum of $75 was taken in from sales. Tea was served on the lawns by members of the Church.

Noted among the guests were Archdeacon R. Horsefield and Mrs. Horsefield, of the Anglican Parish, and Lady Livingston.

Marriage

Needling Might Help, Nagging Might Break

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — The stick in time that saves nine in marriage comes from the gentle art of needling—as opposed to the violent art of nagging.

Nagging, a woman said in an interview, has been known to break up marriages. Needling, meanwhile, patches, strengthens and saves the marriage.

The woman, Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale, is married to a minister, the Rev. Peale. He penned the big book, "The Power of Positive Thinking."

If she nagged, instead of needling, while he was writing it, the book might still be in manuscript form on some editor's desk.

That is because, she indicated during an interview, in 35 years of marriage she has helped her husband to climb the greatest mountain by practicing the gentle art of needling.

The difference between nagging and needling, she said, is that one is obvious and the other isn't. Also: Nagging is destructive; needling, constructive.

The Rev. Peale, pastor of Marble Collegiate Church and president of the Protestant Council of the city of New York, wasn't present to testify to his wife's statement of the benefit of needling. But they have 35 years of marriage to prove its soundness.

Mr. Peale said a lot about what she has to preach about longevity in marriage is old-fashioned.

"But it's so out of style that it is fashionable," she said.

Point paramount in support of this statement: Marriage is the greatest career for women and one of the troubles with contemporary marriage is that too many women don't believe this.

Mr. Peale's theory is that a woman ought first to work at making her marriage a success, make it the prime reason for living.

Once this is done, she indicated, a woman will be surprised at how much time and energy flow over to spend on outside interests.

"Many women don't believe it," she said. "But they have the power to make or break marriage."

Mr. Peale said the first order of business for a new bride ought to be studying her husband—inspecting his strengths and weaknesses and deciding in which areas he needs her help most.

"Then, even if it almost kills her," she said, "the wife helps prop him up. He comes first; she comes second. That is the way in marriage."

Where the children are concerned, according to Mrs. Peale, husband and wife make the policy and administer it jointly. First, they vow to stick by their guns—having the courage to interrupt a child at a movie or party if it goes beyond the coming-home time.

Daddy, also, isn't just the chief disciplinarian, ready to retrieve a privilege or take junior to the woodshed when a family rule is broken.

Bride Carries Roses

COURTENAY—A pretty summer wedding performed by Rev. V. Lord united in marriage two well-known district families.

Lorna Isabella Adey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Adey, became the bride of Mr. Robert King Hutton, son of Mr. Gladys Hutton.

The double-ring ceremony was held in St. John's Anglican Church, which was decorated with peonies and iris with tall white tapers on the altar.

The dark-haired bride was given in marriage by her father and chose a gown of classic simplicity in white peau de soie, featuring a fitted bodice falling gently into a full skirt slightly on train. Her multi-tiered nylon net veil cascaded gently to her shoulders from a half crown of rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

For something borrowed, she wore a blue garter and carried a handbag as something old.

The maid of honor and four bridesmaids were gowned alike in yellow satin, street-length gowns featuring full skirts. They wore matching accessories and short-veiled head-dress. Maid of honor was Joan Hutton, sister of the groom and Mrs. Gladys Hutton.

The bride's mother was Mrs. Fred Lester, Prince Rupert, sister of the bride, Mrs. David Adey, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Bernie Dodd, Port Alberni, a cousin of the bride.

Best man was Mr. Philip Conrad, Campbell River, and grooms usher was the son of Mr. James Walker, Mr. Bernard Dodd and Mr. Ken Adey.

A reception followed in the upper Native Room Hall.

For a honeymoon trip to California the bride wore a gold-toned suit with white accessories and copper-toned corsage of rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutton will make their home in Courtenay.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: In view of the recent letter concerning a daughter who refused to finance her younger sister's college education, I'd like to recite my experience.

I put two relatives through college. They both promised to pay me back out of their first earnings. My nieces wanted so desperately to be a teacher that she offered to pay me 10% interest on the loan. I refused the interest and told her I'd settle for the principal.

Two years have passed since she got her degree and my niece now has an excellent job in a fine school. She has not mentioned one word about repaying the money she owes me. Last Christmas I received no card from her.

The other relative has a fine position in the electronics field. I have not heard from him since his graduation last year. When I saw him at a family affair recently he gave me a nervous hello and avoided me for the balance of the evening.

NEW YORK (AP) — Just by using television, it really is possible for a hypnotist to put some of his viewers in a trance, two psychiatrists said Thursday.

They told of hypnotizing two persons, in a closed-circuit TV experiment, and giving them the signal to come out of the trance state.

There have been reports in England that home viewers were hypnotized, apparently unintentionally, by an expert appearing on television.

Unexpected Role

Midwifery Successful

An Esquimalt councillor's wife and a policeman turned their hands to midwifery Thursday afternoon and ushered in the son of AB John Helgason and his wife Phenomen in their suite at 464 Lamson.

Mother and eight-pound baby boy are "doing fine" in Royal Jubilee Hospital, family physician Dr. W. A. Trenholme said Thursday night.

"They did a splendid job," he said of Mrs. A. R. Mebs, 451 Lamson, and Constable Robert Vining, 383 Sevenoaks.

"It was just a little confusing," said Mrs. Mebs. "I went to render assistance, not to deliver a baby, but I did."

She said she heard her neighbor John Helgason calling for help, and went to see what was wrong. She found Mrs. Helgason giving birth to a son.

Meanwhile the young father was summoning Esquimalt police. "That was quite the father was a little desperate and excited. But he took my picture after it was all over."

AB Helgason is a boatswain on the ocean escort HMCS Antigonish. The couple has one other child, David, 14 months.

Leaders Optimistic About UN

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Leaders of the United Nations, gathering in San Francisco for the world body's 20th commemorative meetings, expressed optimism Thursday that the organization's monetary problems will soon be settled.

Among those expressing such optimism were UN Secretary General Thant, General Assembly President Alex Quaison-Sackey, U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, and UN Under Secretary Ralph Bunche.

DEFICIT HUGE

Earlier this week, Thant announced he received pledges of almost $18,000,000 over and above regular annual payments toward operating costs, which now show a $108,000 deficit.

The move towards rescue was led by Britain, with Canada, Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Iceland also making voluntary pledges.

Thant said on his arrival he is sure the British-led move "will generate similar gestures."

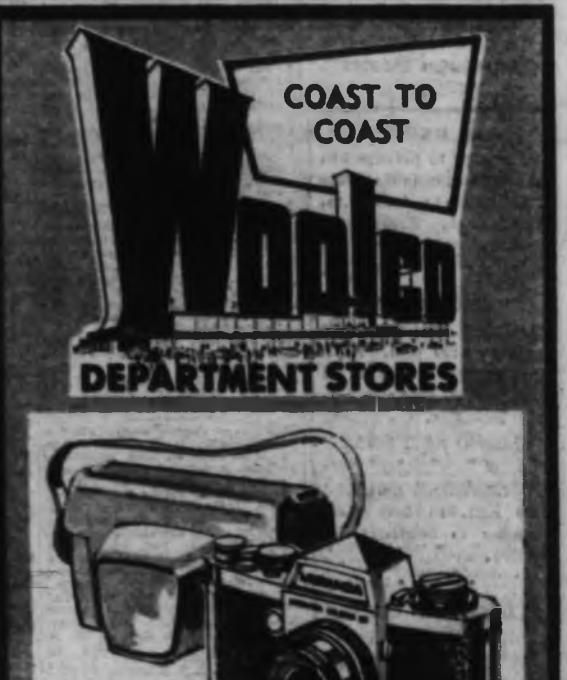

Quaison-Sackey also expressed the hope that pledges would induce other nations to do the same. Stevenson confirmed his remarks in Chicago, in which he said the UN money collection problems would soon be over.

SCENE SHIFTS

The major scene of activities shifted from the War Memorial Opera House where the first UN session was held two decades ago to San Francisco International Airport where jet planes carrying more than 200 dignitaries landed at rapid intervals.

Among the delegates were representatives from the Second World War Big Four—the United States, United Kingdom, Nationalist China and Russia. Some of the nations which did not exist as independent countries when the UN was founded—the Congo, Laos, Malawi, Dahomey, Togo and others—also sent emissaries.

Only one head of state, President Lyndon Johnson, was scheduled to attend. The president will address the opening session of the two-day meeting.

The most famous of all Gilbey's mixed gin drinks.

Is Gilbey's the only gin that mixes perfectly with tonic water?

We think so. And we have a sound reason to back up our belief.

Some gins have rather strong flavouring. Others are utterly tasteless. But Gilbey's London
Dry has a perfect balance of flavour for mixed gin drinks.

In fact, Gilbey's dry flavour has been an international favourite since 1873. Quite a long time.

Tonic water has a delicate, refreshing taste. Gilbey's won't upstage your drink as some other gins can do.

Prove it to yourself. Tonight.

Note: a slice of lime makes an attractive garnish.

Japanese Penalize Fishboat

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's fishery agency penalized a Japanese salmon boat Thursday for violating the international fishery boundary in the North Pacific on June 6.

It also held a Tokyo fishery company responsible for bringing the international agreement.

LEADER FIRED

The boat, the Wakashio Maru No. 15, was ordered to suspend operations in the North Pacific for 25 days retroactive to June 6 and to remain in port an additional 25 days from Aug. 11.

The Nisshiro Fishery Company of Tokyo, held responsible for the violation, was ordered to relieve Yoshinori Nakasui, leader of Nisshiro's salmon fishing fleet, from his post.

FIRST PENALTY

It was the first administrative penalty by Japanese fishery authorities against a Japanese fishing boat or a fishery firm for violation of the Japanese-Canadian-United States North Pacific fishery pact.

BOAT SEIZED

Tsunashichi Ishigaki, skipper of the Wakashio Maru No. 15, admitted trespassing on June 6 over the boundary, 175 west longitude. His boat was seized June 6 by a U.S. Coast Guard cutter about 16 miles east of the longitude line. The Japanese boat was conducted to Adak, Alaska, and later released.

Strike Hits Food Supply

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — This city's four largest grocery chains said Thursday most of their stores will be without supplies by Friday night if the wildcat strike of some 25,000 Teamsters is not settled.

Efforts to bring Teamsters' president James Hoffa to Philadelphia have so far failed. Hoffa has called the strike illegal.

The walkout started Monday in support of four Teamsters members who were fired for refusing to perform work they considered hazardous.

Vintage Car Flips Lid for Court

A vintage car parked outside Saanich courthouse Thursday was too big to bring into court as evidence.

So the court had to go out to the car.

It happened during the trial of 23-year-old Brian Lewis, charged with obstructing a police officer.

TRUNK SEARCH

Lewis, of 200 Island Highway, View Royal, is said to have grabbed the arm of Saanich Constable Fred Wooster while Constable Wooster was searching the trunk of Lewis's 1929 Ford roadster.

A charge of assaulting a policeman was withdrawn Wednesday and the lesser obstruction charge substituted. Lewis has pleaded not guilty.

OVER LIMIT

Constable Wooster testified that on the evening of May 25 he was on duty at the Town and Country shopping plaza when he saw the roadster being driven in the parking lot at a speed that seemed in excess of the 25-miles-an-hour limit.

The roadster stopped on the lot and Lewis, a young woman and another young man stepped out of the car.

Constable Wooster asked Lewis if he was the driver. Lewis denied it at first, Constable Wooster said, but admitted it when told he had been seen leaving the driver's side of the car.

BEAT BEFORE

While they were talking, a group of eight or 10 youths surrounded them and kept butting into the conversation, Constable Wooster said.

Lewis, meanwhile, told him: "I've had run-ins with cops before and I beat you, and I'll beat you again."

Detected liquor on Lewis' breath, and observing that the car's other two occupants seemed to be minors, Constable Wooster decided to search the car's trunk for liquor.

While he was doing so, Lewis grabbed his arm and pulled him away from the car, Constable Wooster said.

ABUSIVE REMARKS

He said Lewis also was very abusive, remarking: "We sure have a dandy cap on duty here tonight. He's sure pushing his luck."

Constable Wooster then told Lewis he was under arrest, whereupon Lewis clenched his fist and told him: "You'll get it."

LED HELD

Cross-examining Constable Wooster, defence counsel Desmond Owen-Flood suggested that instead of grabbing the policeman's arm Lewis was in fact holding the lid of the trunk for him while he made his search.

Constable Wooster said it was his impression the lid stayed open of its own accord.

CHECKED CAR

Mr. Owen-Flood then informed Magistrate William Oster that the car was parked right outside the courthouse and requested its examination by the court.

The magistrate said it was an unusual request, but as prosecutor Kenneth Murphy raised no objection, he agreed to it.

Everyone involved in the proceedings trooped out to have a look at the roadster. At the request of Mr. Owen-Flood, Constable Wooster re-enacted his search of May 25.

CHARGE POSSIBLE

Born once more in the courtroom, Constable Wooster agreed with Mr. Owen-Flood that the lid of the roof would not remain open of its own accord.

But he added it was not necessarily in the same state as on May 25.

The case was adjourned to June 30.

In another case, three minors pleaded guilty to possessing liquor at a beach party in Mount Douglas Park on the evening of June 5 and were each fined $20.

They were: Edward Andrew, 12, of 714 Rockheights; Gary West, 12, of 453 Credit; and Kenneth Johnson, 12, of 2875 Queen.

Mr. Owen-Flood then informed

Beth Finds Navy Training Differs from Campus Life

By JIM BRAHAN

Sailors may join the navy to see the world, but Wren Beth McWilliams, 2725 Bowker, finds navy pay helps with university fees.

Wren McWilliams of HMCS Malahat, Victoria, is naval reserve division, is a new entry slated to begin basic training at HMCS Naden July 18.

In civilian life she is a three-year arts and science student at the University of Victoria, majoring in French and history.

"I have always wanted to join the navy," she said, "and I find it quite a change from attending university."

She pointed out that while naval training requires study, it is of a practical nature and not the intense kind necessary to get through a university year. She is a member of the Royal Canadian Navy Sailing Association, where she often serves as crew.

PO Patricia M. Luckman of Toronto is the regulating petty officer for the wrens reservists at the RCN barracks in Esquimalt, where at two-week intervals throughout the summer classes of wrens will arrive to start their basic training.

The girls arriving every second Monday will generally be between the ages of 18 and 20 years. For the majority, this will be the first time away from home on their own, and to some it will be the first sight of salt water.

The wrens will be from reserve divisions all across Canada, including one at St. John's, Newfoundland.

The feminine sailors follow a variety of civilian careers such as teachers, secretaries, bank clerks and hospital technicians. Their training syllabus is designed to provide an over-all general knowledge of the RCN. Its total was 230.

which is further developed by courses held in their home divisions during the winter months.

Instruction covers history, tradition and regulations of the navy, Canada's role in the United Nations, first aid and parade training.

According to PO Luckman, the navy men were never designed to help anyone keep a girlish figure.

"Most of the girls gain about five pounds during their two-week tour of duty," she said.

Divorce Boom - This Is June?

VANCOUVER (CP) — June, the traditional wedding month, is becoming a month for divorces. The Vancouver courthouse estimates June 1948 will sign an all-time record of 220 uncontested decrees. Last June's total was 120.

Dramatic New Move

Mission Will Talk With Viet Rebels

Blast Rips Consulate

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — A bomb blast rocked the U.S. consulate in Georgetown Thursday, wrecking the John F. Kennedy Library in the basement and damaging consulate offices on the other two floors.

First police reports said the bombing appeared to be the work of a terrorist gang that has been sabotaging government installations and sugar estate property in recent weeks.

Delay Upon Delay

ALGIERS (Reuters) — A majority of the delegations preparing for the top-level Afro-Asian conference have next week set aside time for postponing the meeting several months, conference sources said Thursday.

The pressure for postponement was reported despite urging by Algeria, Egypt, Indonesia and Communist China that the conference start next Tuesday as scheduled.

The sources said it followed two delays within 24 hours in the starting time for a preliminary foreign ministers' conference after demonstrators charged France is aiding South Viet Nam's enemies.

LONDON (CP) — The British Commonwealth's four-power peace mission made clear Thursday night it is ready to meet leaders of the Communist Viet Cong in its quest for peace in Viet Nam.

And British authorities said they had new word from Moscow indicating the Soviets may yet receive the mission — if Communist North Viet Nam agrees to do so.

MOSCOW REACTIONS

The mission, in a series of messages to both East and West, told all parties in the crisis its approach to peacemaking is impartial.

A statement in the names of four government leaders who form the group made three major points:

• They want "direct contact with all the Vietnamese parties" to the war. This means they want to meet Viet Cong leaders either inside or outside South Viet Nam next month.

• They insist "positive steps must be taken by all outside parties" to restrain their military operations while the mission is at work. This is intended to achieve, in particular, a halt in American bombing attacks on North Viet Nam.

Corruption, Cong Targets of War

SAIGON (AP) — Brig.-Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky's new South Viet Nam government proclaimed a state of war Thursday that stiffened the existing state of martial law. It also broke diplomatic relations with Paris, charging France is aiding South Viet Nam's enemies.

Decrees to tighten the home-front effort came out at a 24-hour press conference while troops and airmen pressed the campaign against the Viet Cong and their North Vietnamese backers.

A battalion of 600 U.S. paratroopers fought guerrillas in the bush-chewed Demme jungle 25 miles north of Saigon, the target of the war's first strike by B-52 jets of the Strategic Air Command.

The Americans drew only some sniper fire.

AERIAL STREETS

More than 120 U.S. planes carried out aerial strikes against North Viet Nam. A spokesman said a 46-plane force staging the fourth raid in a week on the Son La army barracks, 110 miles west northwest of Hanoi, sighted two MiG-17s, but Cong Communist jets peeled away.

The conflict with France, which advocates neutralization of Viet Nam, and the domestic crackdowns were announced by Ky and his ministers.

Romantic Overtures

Divorce Plaintiff Afraid Her Resistance Is Low

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A 24-year-old Swiss-born music teacher couplaged a divorce suit Thursday with a request that the court restrain a doctor from forcing his attentions upon her because she can't resist him.

Edwards denied all allegations contained in both the actions brought by the Taorminas.

But Superior Judge Roger Alton Pfaff, after hearing the complaint, ordered Edwards to appear July 8 to show cause why he should not be re-sonable to his cross-complaint.

If the court doesn't act, Mrs. Taormina "fears improper advances will be made again which she may be unable to resist them."

Edwards denied all allegations contained in both the actions brought by the Taorminas.

But Superior Judge Roger Alton Pfaff, after hearing the complaint, ordered Edwards to appear July 8 to show cause why he should not be restrained from making romantic overtures.

Mrs. Taormina originally filed for divorce in December, and her husband filed a cross-complaint in January seeking an annulment. He contended she was married to another man at the time of their Las Vegas wedding, and also accused her of adultery with Edwards.

Mrs. Taormina's complaint named Edwards as well as her husband as defendants.

Charlie Chasing 'Killers' with Cheque Book

Line Baited for Whale-Catcher

By GARY OAKES

Cheque book in hand, Charlie White of the Undersea Gardens is flying today to Namu, a cannery village south of Ocean Falls, in hopes of buying at least one of two killer whales.

But he may be in for some tough bidding as Marineland of the Pacific, near Los Angeles, is particularly interested in the two whales caught by accident by a commercial fisherman Wednesday.

Marineland offered $20,000 last year for Moby Doll, the killer whale captured by Dr. Murray Newman, Vancouver Public Aquarium curator.

Mr. White has been told Dr. Newman offered $2,000 for the whales but was turned down.

Mr. White said Thursday he isn't sure whether he wants both whales but is prepared to offer more than $2,000.

One of the whales is 20 feet long and the other 10 feet long but no one is sure of the sex of either.

They swam into Mr. Leckhobit's net when it snagged on a rock and the fisherman pulled the free end of the net around and trapped them against the rock.

Now he's waiting for offers.

If Mr. White is able to purchase either or both whales he can offer more natural facilities than the Vancouver aquarium or Marineland.

A pen 60 feet by 100 feet has already been designed complete with a special viewing chamber which would enable visitors to see the whales from above and below the surface.

If the project is approved by the various authorities, it would be set up in a matter of weeks behind the existing Undersea Gardens.

Mr. White estimates the pen would cost $10,000 to $15,000. Donald Wilkie, a special consultant from Scripps Institute of Oceanography near San Diego and former assistant curator of the Vancouver aquarium, would fly up to handle the massive moving job if Mr. White's bid is accepted.

SCENT VICTORY

By IAN SMITH

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant expects to find a solution to the ticklish Gorge sewage question "within two or three weeks."

Members of the Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterways Association immediately hailed the news as a major victory.

Mr. Chant confirmed Thursday that Saanich municipality and the public works department of the provincial government are working together to find an economic disposal method that will not involve fouling the waters of the Gorge.

He also implied that the solution would not involve changing the site of the proposed Wilkinson Road retarded children's hospital.

"I think we have an answer to the problem," said Mr. Chant, "but we can't disclose it until it has been checked out thoroughly by engineers."

I THINK IT WILL WORK

"The engineers may find some flaws that will necessitate our abandoning the idea," he said, "but I think it will work out all right."

Saanich and the provincial public works department both applied to dump treated effluent into Colquitz Creek, and the Pollution Control Board approved the Saanich application before residents set up a howl of protest.

1,000 SIGNATURES

The waterways association was formed as an answer to the two applications, and members collected more than 7,000 signatures in an effort to halt the scheme.

"Maybe we've succeeded," said Richard Fauler, president of the association. "If it's true, I'm jubilant."

"But we'll stay on guard until we see this thing through," he promised. "It certainly sounds hopeful."

LONG HARD PULL

Saanich MLA John Tisdale was "very happy" about the latest development, especially the likelihood that the children's hospital would not be moved.

"It's been a long, hard pull to get one on the Island," he said.

Mr. Chant, while refusing to disclose the nature of the proposed solution, did say that "what we want is a permanent sewer connection."

HINTS HOOKUP

"In the end, it may actually be more economic to hook up to proper facilities rather than put in a treatment plant."

"These plants are not cheap, you know. The kind we planned could easily have cost $100,000, and then it would have been only a temporary solution."

WOULD COST ANYWAY

"We would eventually have to pay the cost of installing sewers, anyway."

He implied that both Saanich and the provincial government had dispensed with the idea of dumping effluent into Colquitz Creek.

"It would only add to the algae problem that already exists," he admitted. "Actually, the amount of algae attributable to our plant would be negligible, when compared with that produced by other causes, but some would undoubtedly be produced nevertheless."

Mrs. Taormina's complaint named Edwards as well as her husband as defendants.

Anemone Hungry Enemy

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A sea anemone, a plant-like sea animal, devoured a young leopard shark Thursday in the aquarium tank they shared.

The rare encounter was witnessed by photographers and staff members of the Aquarium of Niagara Falls.

The sea anemone has flowing tentacles with poison tips, normally small sea animals, before eating them.

The young shark and the sea anemone, from the Pacific Ocean, had been in the same tank about three weeks.

Winfred Brady, aquarium director, said the shark was about a year old, 30 inches long and weighed about 1½ pounds. The anemone, which is about eight to 12 inches wide, surrounds its food by distending itself. The food is then digested by a gastric juice.

British Columbia.

So now you can treat your Canadian friends to that English beer you've been telling them about.

Toby's a typical English beer, made with real English hops, toasted barley-malt, and patience.

So it has more bite and less gas than Canadian beers. And a deep-amber colour.

Since it's English beer, remember, you should serve it at English pub temperature. Not warm, heaven forbid.

Just nicely cool.

A real English beer brewed in Canada.

Port Mayor Asks Richter:

Check Fallout Story

POR ALBERNI—Mayor Len Hamner said Thursday he would welcome a government investigation into charges that chemical residue fallout is killing trees and shrubs in the Alberni Valley. The mayor said the department ment of agriculture should clear the matter up as soon as possible.

Colin S. Wilson, horticulturist and owner of the largest plant nursery in this area, last week said plants were dying "at an alarming rate" because of chemical fallout, possible from local mills.

In a letter, he asked Agriculture Minister Richter to investigate the matter.

Mayor Hamner said he could not comment on whether fallout from pulp mills was killing plants because he is not an expert on plant life.

But he said a government investigation would not be out of line, since health department officials "have seen fit to undertake a study of the high rate of respiratory diseases in the area."

Nunny Bag Uses Pillerponk Story

DUNCAN—Maple Bay author Mrs. P. G. Rodd, is one of 11 British Columbia writers whose work has been chosen for publication in the fourth of a series of two-volume anthologies of writing for Canadian children. It has been learned here.

The anthologies, just published by W. J. Gage Limited, are titled Nunny Bag 4, for six to nine-year-olds and Rubaboo 4, for 10 to 12-year-olds.

Thirty-seven manuscripts were chosen from several thousand submissions from all across Canada. The works included short stories, poems and fairy tales, essays, plays and biographies.

Victoria-born Phyllis Rodd has lived at Maple Bay for many years and most of her stories are about nature. Pillerponk, in Nunny Bag 4, is a story of a boy who gets lost in the forest and discovers some of its mysteries.

Her play Noot-ches, and the Paddle, from Nunny Bag 1, has been reprinted in the United States.

Only other Vancouver Island author whose work was chosen for the anthologies this year is Paul Brock of Saanichton.

Reeves Donald Morton of North Cowichan who is also chairman of the commission. The commission is made up of the entire North Cowichan council and the recreation commission.

SHOULD BORROW

Reeves Donald Morton said the municipality should borrow up to $600,000 for a five-year capital works bylaw with one of the projects to be paid for fully by the municipality and the two others to be shared.

He called for:

• A multi-purpose arena to be the North Cowichan centennial project to be situated on the Trans-Canada Highway in the northern end of the municipality;

• An outdoor swimming pool, located near Duncan to be shared between the City of Duncan and the Duncan Rotary Club;

• A district community centre to be built near Duncan on a regional basis to be shared by North Cowichan, Duncan and the unorganized areas south of Duncan.

Members of the centennial committee expressed enthusiasm for the proposal and it will be presented to the North Cowichan council at its next meeting in July.

'MOOD HAS CHANGED'

Reeves Donald Morton told the commission members that recreation "in this area has lacked support during the past years but I feel the mood has changed."

He said the bylaw should not cause "any appreciable increase in the mill rate as it will be borrowed as the projects are begun."

BENEFIT TO ALL

The proposal should improve relations between North Cowichan, Duncan and the unorganized areas as the project would be of benefit to residents of all areas, he said.

He also hinted that as soon as a regional body could be formed, the municipality would take the lead in the matter.

Reeves Donald Morton said it might also be possible to obtain provincial government aid in such matters as obtaining land.

LONDON (UPI) — China today officially rejected a Commonwealth peace mission to Peking to seek to end the Viet Nam war.

Blast Rips Consulate

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (UPI) — A bomb blast rocked the U.S. consulate in Georgetown Thursday, wrecking the John F. Kennedy Library in the basement and damaging consulate offices on the other two floors.

Delay Upon Delay

ALGIERS (Reuters) — A majority of the delegations preparing for the top-level Afro-Asian conference here next week are talking of postponing the meeting several months, conference sources said Thursday.

The pressure for postponement was reported despite urging by Algeria, Egypt, Indonesia and Communist China that the conference start next Tuesday as scheduled.

The sources said it followed two delays within 24 hours in the starting time for a preliminary foreign ministers' conference after demonstrating against the ousting of Algerian president Ben Bella.

The foreign ministers originally were scheduled to meet Thursday. A 24-hour delay was announced Wednesday night, to allow time for additional delegations to arrive. A second delay, to noon Saturday, was announced for the same reason Thursday afternoon by the 12-nation committee preparing for the foreign ministers' meeting.

Committee delegates were concerned by the failure of the revolutionary council, which ousted Ben Bella, and seized power Saturday, to give convincing proof of stability based on popular support.

Thousands of students demonstrated every night this week, demanding Ben Bella be freed and calling defense minister Col. Houari Boumedienne, who led the coup, an assassin.

Cabinet ministers and officials of more than 30 countries who have already arrived face the difficult decision whether it is safe for their leaders to come to the conference in view of the protest demonstrations.

About 20 more countries also were scheduled to send delegates to the Afro-Asian summit meeting. Most of the delegations were to be headed by prime ministers, presidents and kings.

U.S. Soldier Executed

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam said today a captured U.S. Army Sgt. Harold George Bennett has been executed in reprisal for "numerous bloody crimes against the South Vietnamese people."

LONDON (CP) — The British Commonwealth's four-power peace mission made clear Thursday night it is ready to meet leaders of the Communist Viet Cong in its quest for peace in Viet Nam.

And British authorities said they had new word from Moscow indicating the Soviets may yet receive the mission — if Communist North Viet Nam agrees to do so.

MISSION IMPARIAL

The mission, in a series of messages to both East and West, told all parties in the crisis its approach to peace-making is impartial.

A statement in the names of four government leaders who form the group made three major points:

• They want "direct contact with all the Vietnamese parties" to the war. This means they want to meet Viet Cong leaders either inside or outside South Viet Nam next month.

• They insist "positive steps must be taken by all outside parties" to restrain their military operations while the mission is at work. This is intended to achieve, in particular, a halt in American bombing attacks on North Viet Nam.

Corruption, Cong Targets of War

SAIGON (AP) — Brig.-Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky's new South Viet Nam government proclaimed a state of war Thursday that stiffened the existing state of martial law. It also broke diplomatic relations with Paris, charging France is aiding South Viet Nam's enemies.

Decrees to tighten the home-front effort came out at a Saigon press conference while troops and airmen pressed the campaign against the Viet Cong and their North Vietnamese backers.

A battalion of 600 U.S. paratroopers fought guerrillas in the bomb-charged D-sonne jungle 25 miles north of Saigon, the target of the first strike by B-52 jets of the Strategic Air Command. The Americans drew only some sniper fire.

AERIAL STRIKES

More than 130 U.S. planes carried out aerial strikes against North Viet Nam. A spokesman said a 48-plane force staging the fourth raid in a week on the Son La army barracks, 110 miles west northwest of Hanoi, sighted two MiG-17s, but the Communist jets peeled away.

The break with France, which advocates neutralization of Viet Nam, and the domestic crackdown were announced by Ky and his ministers.

Alderman Crash Victim

TRAIL (CP) — A 46-year-old Nelson alderman died Thursday, a few hours after being found in the wreckage of a light plane beside the corpse of its pilot.

F. A. Beresford died in Kootenay Lake General Hospital, where he had undergone surgery for multiple injuries.

Police identified the pilot as Alex MacLean, 46, of Nelson.

A group of loggers found the wreck in Lemon Creek.

The plane is believed to have crashed about 6:15 p.m. Wednesday while returning to Nelson from Vernon after trying unsuccessfully to land at Kamloops.

Romantic Overtures

Divorce Plaintiff Afraid Her Resistance Is Low

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A 24-year-old Swiss-born music teacher couched a divorce suit Thursday with a request that the court restrain a doctor from forcing his attentions upon her because she can't resist them.

In one of the most unusual cases in local court annals, Mrs. Virginia Taormina admitted having an affair with a physician she identified as Dr. Arthur F. Edwards, 49, named by her husband as co-respondent in his cross-complaint.

If the court doesn't act, Mrs. Taormina "fears improper advances will be made again which she may be unable to resist."

Edwards denied all allegations contained in both the actions brought by the Taorminas.

But Superior Judge Roger Alton Pfaff, after hearing the complaint, ordered Edwards to appear July 8 to show cause why he should not be restrained from making romantic overtures.

Mr. Pfaff originally filed for divorce in December, and her husband filed a cross-complaint in January seeking an annulment. He contended she was married to another man at the time of their Las Vegas wedding, and also accused her of adultery with Edwards.

Mrs. Taormina's complaint against Edwards as well as her husband as defendants.

"We would eventually have had to pay the cost of installing sewers, anyway."

He implied that both Saanich and the provincial government had dispensed with the idea of dumping effluent into Colquitz Creek.

"It would only add to the algae problem that already exists," he admitted. "Actually, the amount of algae attributable to our plant would be negligible when compared with that produced by other causes, but some would undoubtedly be produced nevertheless."

Charlie Chasing 'Killers' with Cheque Book

Line Baited for Whale-Catcher

By GARY OAKES

Cheque book in hand, Charlie White of the Undersea Gardens is flying today to Namu, a cannery village south of Ocean Falls, in hopes of buying at least one of two killer whales.

But he may be in for some tough bidding as Marineland of the Pacific, near Los Angeles, is particularly interested in the two whales caught by accident by a commercial fisherman Wednesday.

Marineland offered $20,000 last year for Moby Doll, the killer whale captured by Dr. Murray Newman, Vancouver Public Aquarium curators.

Mr. White has been told Dr. Newman offered $2,000 for the whales but was turned down by fisherman William Leckebot.

Mr. White said Thursday he isn't sure whether he wants both whales but is prepared to offer more than $2,000.

One of the whales is 20 feet long and the other 18 feet long but no one is sure of the sex of either.

They swam into Mr. Leckebot's net when it snagged on a rock and the fisherman pulled the free end of the net around and trapped them against the rock.

Now he's waiting for offers.

If Mr. White is able to purchase either or both whales he can offer more natural facilities than the Vancouver aquarium or Marineland.

A pen 60 feet by 100 feet has already been designed complete with a special viewing chamber which would enable visitors to see the whales from above and below the surface.

If the project is approved by the various authorities, it would be set up in a matter of weeks behind the existing Undersea Gardens.

Mr. White estimates the pen would cost $10,000 to $15,000.

Donald Wilkie, a special consultant from Scripps Institute of Oceanography near San Diego and former assistant curator of the Vancouver aquarium, would fly up to handle the massive moving job if Mr. White's bid is accepted.
